DEADLY CROSSFIRE BARRAGE IN SAIGON

Scores Of Fleeing Residents Killed, Hurt As U.S. Forces Join Savage Street Battles

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. combat forces joined the battle of Saigon today and killed an estimated 260 Viet Cong in a savage battle in which scores of civilians were killed or wounded in a deadly crossfire.

Other civilians died when they were trampled in panicky flight or crushed against a barbed wire barricade.

By nightfall 10,000 more refugees fled into the heart of Saigon from the battle in the southern outskirts, many of them fleeing through bursts of mortar, rockets, grenades and automatic weapons fire with their children and their meager possessions.

Some of the civilian victims were felled by sniper and automatic weapons fire from the Viet Cong's Phu Loi 2 local force battalion trapped in some buildings at Binh Thoi on the southern outskirts of Saigon. Others were hit by U.S. helicopter gunships as they panicked into the streets.

SCORES FALL

Three UPI correspondents watched as scores of men, women and children fell in the fighting, many of them caught up in a torrent of human misery when 4,000 of the refugees tried to crowd onto the "Y" bridge leading across the Saigon River into the city proper.

The Communists were balked in this effort to enter Saigon on the third day of their spring offensive that so far has cost them an estimated 2,760 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese dead. They also were balked in heavy fighting near Tan Son Nhut airfield and the Phu To racetrack to the east.

BATTALION SUFFERS

U.S. military spokesmen said 195 members of the Phu Loi 2 local force battalion were counted dead by dark and they estimated another 60 were still lying in the rubble of about 200 homes destroyed in the fighting that left a pall of smoke over the city.

Military authorities already had reported at least 1,559 Communists killed in the 11 provinces around Saigon and put the toll of Communist dead at more than 2,500 across the rest of Vietnam. Today's toll added to those figures.

Civilian losses were put at 37 killed and 886 wounded but these did not include the men, women and children caught up in the fighting near Y bridge on this 14th anniversary of the fall of the French fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

30 TRAMPLED

As many as 30 persons were trampled during the stampede across the bridge, many of them shoved against the concertina barbed wire along the sides of the road. The bridge itself was littered with sandals dropped from fleeing feet and there were two baby blankets and three shawls on the roadway.

Nine hours after the initial crush they still came across in droves. Children separated from their parents wailed in fright.

Richmond, City Eye Mill Valley School System

Richmond and San Francisco schools plan to send 100 children from their less privileged neighborhoods to school in Mill Valley, hopefully in September.

The children would attend some Mill Valley school along with Mill Valley children who were volunteered for the mixed school by their parents, under a plan proposed by Supt. James A. Collins of the Mill Valley district. Transportation would be provided by the Marin County superintendent of schools office.

The plan was approved by Mill Valley School District trustees at their March 25 meeting as something to be done after completion of the new Middle School with funds from last year's $4 million bond issue. Since then, however, the "tentative target date" has been moved to next September, according to Marin County, San Francisco and Richmond school superintendents who have been in on the discussions.

There was no mention of the plan at last night's Mill Valley board meeting. (See story, page 17.)

The Richmond Unified School District Board approved the plan April 3, with hope that it can start next September, Supt Denvil Widel reported today. Richmond plans to send 75 pupils.

Supt. Robert E. Jenkins is to present the proposal to the San Francisco Board of Education tonight, calling for sending 25 pupils.

Donald Rhodes, San Francisco assistant superintendent for elementary schools, said he was informed the Mill Valley board had approved the plan for September.

'READY TO GO'

"They're all ready to go," said Rhodes. "We are hoping to start a real pioneer effort in urban-suburban cooperation."

Superintendent Collins, however, said the September start for the program is dependent on getting funds from some foundation — probably Kettering or Rosenberg Foundation—to pay rent on portable classrooms that would be necessary to handle the 100 additional pupils.

A start next fall, he said, would be as a "pilot project" for a proposed "rotational school" when the mviddle school is completed a year later.

PORTABLE CLASSROOMS

The Mill Valley schools already have 32 portable classrooms in use. Work is now under way on converting the auditorium at Old Mill School and a basement storage room at Park School into classrooms. However, Asst. Supt. Leo Edson

Snapshots Help Ray Manhunt

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The FBI today distributed two newly obtained photographs of James Earl Ray, the ex-convict sought in the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. One was described as "an extremely good likeness."

A candid photograph of Ray, which the FBI said was taken in late January or early February of this year somewhere in California, shows him almost full face in a business suit and tie.

The second photograph, which the FBI said was taken last November somewhere in Mexico, also is a candid shot. It shows him in dark glasses wearing what appears to be a white sports shirt.

The FBI declined to say how the photographs had been obtained. They will be displayed throughout the country along with two other photographs of Ray which appear on the FBI's wanted poster.

One is a photo of Ray at the time he was said to be posing as a man named Eric Starbo

WASHINGTON HEARING

Arnheiter Says Conspiracy Caused Command Change

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Lt. Cmdr. Marcus Arnheiter of San Rafael today testified that he was relieved of his ship's command on March 31, 1966, because of a conspiracy by three of his junior officers.

Arnheiter was the first witness at an unofficial one-man congressional hearing conducted by Rep. Joseph Resnick, D-N.Y.. Arnheiter said that when he took over command of the Vance, a destroyer on active duty off of Vietnam, on Dec. 23, 1965, he found the ship in deplorable shape. The crew, he said, was "like McHale's Navy," a television comedy show.

"It was literally infested with cockroaches," Arnheiter said, adding that rust had been painted over, discipline was slack and appearance of the crew was sloppy.

When he tried to whip the crew into shape, his troubles began, Arnheiter testified.

Resnick said he was conducting the investigation not to determine the merits of the charges against Arnheiter, but rather to determine if the action taken against him was "controlled by personal animosity or sanctioned by official action according to Navy regulations."

Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, joined Resnick in the three-day hearing, as did two attorneys whom Resnick said had volunteered their services.

Arnheiter's wife, Janice, was also sitting in the hearing room.

Arnheiter has long maintained that the proceedings relieving him of his command were carried out in a manner contrary to Navy regulations.

The Navy, in relieving the 42-year-old career officer, said it pulled him off the ship after finding he had a "gross lack of judgment and an inability to lead people."

He sought a congressional hearing on the case after failing to win back his command through regular Navy channels. The Annapolis graduate has been denied any further command during his Navy career and is presently assigned to a desk job at the Western Sea Frontier Headquarters on Treasure Island.

The hearings are scheduled to continue tomorrow.

SAN RAFAEL GRAD

Grenade Shrapnel Kills Ex-Athlete

A 25-year-old Los Ranchitos GI—in Vietnam just over a month—was killed Friday by grenade shrapnel, it was reported today.

He was Pfc. Warren F. Nickel Jr., whose father is civilian personnel officer at the Oakland Army Base. The son, drafted into the Army last October, left for Vietnam from the Oakland base March 27.

No details of the soldier's death were available.

The family, of 202 Mirada Avenue, said Nickel last wrote to them April 28. The letter arrived Friday.

Nickel graduated in 1961 from San Rafael High School, where he was a football letterman, attended the College of Marin, also playing football, then transferred to Humboldt State College, Eureka.

He graduated from that school last year after majoring in fish and game management. He had planned to make this work a career.

While at Humboldt State, Nickel met Mary Jane Westfall. They were married in 1966. She lives in Watsonville, Santa Cruz County.

Nickel, drafted after college, took basic and advanced training at Fort Lewis, Wash. He belonged to Co. D, 2nd Battalion, 12th Infantry, 25th Infantry Division.

Born in Marinette, Wis., he had lived in Marin County about 17 years.

Survivors, besides his parents and wife, are two brothers, Dennis of Santa Barbara and Mark, at home, and a sister, Mrs. Sharon Bingham of San Diego.

Funeral is pending in Watsonville.

President Signs Bill Hiking FHA Interest

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson said today mortgage interest rates could zoom to as high as 10 per cent if Congress failed to raise income taxes.

"Only responsible fiscal policy can prevent another credit crunch," Johnson said, noting that some types of interest rates already have risen to 8 per cent. He deplored this as well as high prices and big budget deficits.

The president made the remarks at a White House ceremony at which he signed a bill removing the 6 per cent interest ceiling on both Veterans Administration and Federal Housing Administration home loans.

Soon after the president signed the bill, new interest rate ceilings of 6.75 per cent were set for both FHA and VA loans. The new rates were announced by Secretary Robert C. Weaver of the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Department for FHA loans and the head of the Veterans Administration, William J. Driver, for VA loans.

Johnson said the economic outlook had improved since yesterday.

He referred to approval by the House Ways and Means Committee of a plan to increase

Reuther Again UAW President

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Walter P. Reuther was unanimously reelected today as president of the 1.6 million member United Auto Workers Union.

Reuther's name was the only one placed in nomination by 3,000 delegates representing UAW locals from the United States and Canada.

Meeting in the huge Convention Hall auditorium, decorated with thousands of balloons for the occasion, the delegates roared approval of Reuther, who has been president of the UAW continuously since March, 1946.

SIT-IN, FIRE

Protest Flares At Stanford

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Rebellious students at Stanford University staged a massive sit-in at the administration building today to protest the recommended suspension of seven classmates.

About 200 students spent the night in the building and early today the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps building was destroyed by fire. Campus fire officials said they believed arson was involved.

A spokesman for the administration of Stanford University said there was no reason to link the fire in the naval ROTC building with the demonstrators.

"The students have been scrupulous about respecting property and have not broken a pane of glass, the spokesman, Bob Beyers, said.

The demonstration was sparked by the recommendation of a five-man faculty committee that seven students be suspended for participating in a campus demonstration Nov. 1 against the Central Intelligence Agency.

The building was undergoing repairs from a February fire which caused $35,000 damage and was labeled deliberate arson by investigators.

Hanoi Envoy Voices Peace Talk Optimism

PARIS (UPI)—Col. Han Van Lau, North Vietnam's chief spokesman for the preliminary Vietnam talks, flew in today from Hanoi aboard a Soviet transport plane and said he was "very optimistic" about the outcome of the discussions which start Friday.

Lau, a narrow shouldered man with a military bearing, wore a dark grey suit and a light blue overcoat instead of his usual colonel's uniform. He emerged from the Soviet Aeroflot Ilyushin 18 airliner at Le Bourget airfield and told a UPI reporter:

"I am very optimistic about the outcome of the discussions."

His statement was in sharp contrast to the warning last night by chief U.S. negotiator, Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, that tough negotiations lay ahead.

In a speech in New York Harriman said, "No one can foresee clearly the road ahead. It is quite obvious, however,

Shriver Takes Envoy Job Early

WASHINGTON (UPI) —R. Sargent Shriver was installed today as new U.S. ambassador to France. The swearing in was moved up by a week to get Shriver on his way to Paris before opening of U.S.-North Vietnam talks there.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Shriver, 52-year-old brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy, was being dispatched earlier than planned to give support to the U.S. delegation headed by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Shriver told reporters after the crowded ceremony at the State Department that he would leave for Paris tomorrow morning. The talks are expected to open Friday.

LURLEEN B. WALLACE

Cancer Kills Gov. Lurleen Wallace

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) —Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace, a former dimestore clerk who rode her husband's popularity into office as Alabama's first woman governor, died today after a lengthy battle against cancer.

The blonde, 41-year-old mother of four died quietly in the governor's mansion at 12:34 a.m., CDT, with her husband, former Gov. George C. Wallace, at her bedside.

Lt. Gov. Albert Brewer, 39, a dapper, north Alabama attorney and close personal friend of the Wallaces, became the new Alabama governor. He told a caller at his Decatur home that "it's too quick" for any statement on Mrs. Wallace's death.

Brewer, a Tennessee native, is considered more moderate on segregation than George Wallace and once remarked that he was no Wallace "messenger boy."

Mrs. Wallace died on the day of the Alabama Democratic primary, when voters were to nominate candidates for U.S. Senate and a slate of electors pledged to George Wallace, a third party presidential candidate. Brewer was on the Wallace slate, which was almost certain of victory. The next governor's election is in two years.

WALLACE RUNNING

Wallace had to postpone his campaign for president at times because of his wife's illness, but he was not expected to drop out of the race. He once said he had pledged to his wife to seek the presidency despite any adversity.

Mrs. Wallace, inaugurated Jan. 16, 1967 on the Capitol steps where Jefferson Davis was sworn in as president of the Confederacy, had been in office less than six months when she received the news she had cancer for the second time.

While she had maintained a busy schedule of appointments and sometimes had two or three speaking engagements a day during her first half year, she was seldom in the office after the cancer recurred.

TURN FOR WORSE

Mrs. Wallace had been released from the hospital April 13 and was well enough to take automobile rides, but yesterday morning it was announced that she had suffered another setback. The "turn for the worse" came Sunday night, the announcement said.

Mrs. Wallace, a dimestore clerk in Tuscaloosa when she married Wallace during World War II, was elected to succeed her husband as governor with the largest vote ever given a gubernatorial candidate in Alabama.

She ran as a stand-in for Wallace, who was barred by the Alabama Constitution from succeeding himself, and Wallace became her No. 1 "adviser" and made the major decisions after she took office. He worked from an unmarked office directly across the hall from his wife's office in the Capitol.

The attractive honey-blonde contacted cancer of the uterus in 1965, prior to her campaign for governor, but underwent radiation treatments and doctors said an operation Jan. 10, 1966, revealed no evidence of any remaining malignancy.

Mrs. Wallace said her decision to run for governor was based on the doctors' findings that the operation was "a complete success."

Three Heart Survivors Doing Well

HOUSTON (UPI)—The nation's two surviving heart transplant patients were reported in "satisfactory" condition today in hospital rooms on the same floor. One of them wrote notes to his wife and the other sat up in bed.

In London, heart transplant patient Frederick West, 45, celebrated his progress by taking a walk and drinking a glass of sherry. West has the heart of a young Irish carpenter, killed in a fall, beating strongly in his chest.

'OUT OF DANGER'

Dr. Denton Cooley, who headed the surgical team that performed both of the transplants at Houston's St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, said one of the patients was "out of danger" from everything except the possibility that his system would reject the new heart.

Cooley was speaking of Everett C. Thomas, 47, of Phoenix, Ariz., who received the heart of a 15-year-old suicide victim last Friday. Thomas sat up yesterday and put his legs over the edge of the bed.

James Bordon Cobb of Alexandria, Lam, who received the heart of a 15-year-old high school football player Sunday night, wrote notes to his wife and the doctors yesterday.

In Washington, a number of specialists at a one-day "conference on human heart transplants" at the National Academy of Sciences suggested only patients intelligent enough to realize the risks but possessed of a fierce will to live should be accepted for heart transplant operations.

ATTEMPT DEFENDED

In Stanford, Dr. Norman Shumway Monday said in a statement his second unsuccessful heart transplant operation was justifiable because "we are dealing with patients who face certain death if nothing is done."

The patient, Joseph Rizor, a 40-year-old carpenter, died Sunday night, three and one half days after receiving the heart of a telephone company analyst who died of massive brain hemorrhage.

Astronaut Safe In Accident

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Astronaut Neil Armstrong bailed out safely from a crippled moon landing trainer yesterday — his second in-flight brush with a space vehicle emergency—but the $2.5 million craft crashed and burned moments later. It was a total loss.

A video tape of the event, taken for engineers studying the flight, showed the spider-shaped trainer hitting the ground and exploding in a huge fireball.

LOST PRESSURE

Space agency spokesmen said no official cause for the crash had been determined. Personnel at the site, however, said the system which pressurizes the craft's rocket control and descent engines failed and left the vehicle out of control 200 feet in the air.

An official investigation started immediately.

Armstrong, who piloted Gemini 8 to a safe emergency splashdown in 1966 after it went out of control during history's first space rendezvous and docking, parachuted to earth near the place where his spider-shaped trainer fell.

LANDING PRACTICE

Armstrong was just completing a practice moon landing. He had been aloft five minutes, climbing to 500 feet with the craft's fan-jet engine and then dropping back toward the ground with both fan-jet and rocket engines on.

The crash left the space agency with three other similar trainers, all of a more advanced design. All were designed to duplicate the gravity conditions of the moon—one-sixth that of earth—for Apollo astronauts who hope to land on the lunar surface by 1970.

Because of its unusual shape the landing trainer has sometimes been called the "Flying Bedstead." It was built by Bell Aerosystems Co. of Buffalo, N.Y.

SEN. CARL HAYDEN

Senate Dean Carl Hayden Ends Career

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Back in 1912, the brand new state of Arizona picked the gangly, two-gun sheriff of Maricopa County as a member of the first congressional delegation it proudly packed off to Washington.

Yesterday, stooped and wizened at 90, former lawmaker Carl Hayden stepped before the television cameras and with tears in his eyes said his all-time record tenure of 56 years in Congress will end this year.

In a steady voice he quietly told newsmen, "there is a time of war and a time of peace, a time to keep and a time to cast away, a time to weep and a time to laugh —a time to stand and a time to step aside.

A relative latecomer who arrived in Congress a quarter century after Hayden, called him "the Senator's Senator. . . Mr. Integrity from Arizona."

He was Lyndon B. Johnson, and he said he had to see for himself in order to "believe the unbelievable"—that the Senate was losing "the strength the wisdom and the inspirational leadership" of its longest term member.

The President, observing that he and Hayden were retiring from politics at the same time, commented "I know there is still a need for teachers and I am going back from where I came, but I wonder if Carl Hayden recently has checked the need for frontier sheriffs."

INDIANA PRIMARY: KENNEDY TEST

Faces First Tests Of Power In Hoosier, District Of Columbia Balloting Today

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's presidential hopes were put to the kind of test that counts for the first time today. The judges were voters of Indiana and the District of Columbia.

Although Democrats in Alabama and voters of both parties in Ohio also chose national convention delegates, there were only two significant major party contests.

Indiana was crucial for Kennedy because it was the first time he had gone to the voters since entering the presidential race in March.

TWO OPPONENTS

His competition was Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., who already has won in the Wisconsin, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries, and Gov. Roger D. Branigin, who entered as a stand-in for President Johnson and remained in as a favorite son candidate.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has no competition for the 26 Indiana Republican convention votes. There was no chance for the kind of write-in vote blitz the supporters of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller pulled off in Massachusetts last week. Write-ins are not counted in Indiana.

CAPITAL BALLOT

The District of Columbia, whose citizens now can vote for president and the school board, offered a choice to Democrats of one Kennedy slate and two competing slates supporting Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

On the Republican side, three slates were running, all unofficially pledged to divide the District's nine convention votes. Two slates were lined up with six votes for Nixon and three for Rockefeller; one adds Gov. Ronald Reagan to the division of votes.

KENNEDY HOPES

Kennedy hoped an Indiana victory would put his candidacy on a rocket, much as did his brother's 1960 West Virginia victory. A loss, especially to McCarthy, would be a blow to Kennedy's chances for the nomination.

In the other primaries, the big names were not competing. Gov. James Rhodes and Sen. Stephen Young were favorite sons to tie up Ohio's 58 Republican and 115 Democratic convention votes.

Alabama Democrats also chose delegates to cast their 32 convention votes, but the only announced support was for former Gov. George C. Wallace.

Alabama, Ohio and Florida also had brisk primaries for U.S. Senate seats. In Alabama, the Democratic contest for the seat being vacated by veteran Sen. Lister Hill centered on Rep. Armistead Selden, former state Atty. Gen. Jim Allen and Robert Smith.

OHIO RACE

In Ohio, Sen. Frank Lausche was under Democratic primary pressure from former Rep. John J. Gilligan, who got the party organization endorsement. State Atty. Gen. William Saxbe was the GOP favorite.

In Florida, there were both Democratic and Republican contests for the Senate seat being vacated by Sen. George Smathers. Former Gov. Leroy Collins and state Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth were the strong candidates for the Democratic nomination; Rep. Edward Gurney and former Mayor Herman Goldner of St. Petersburg were on the GOP ballot.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Oust Japanese

MANILA (UPI) — Mayor Antonio Villegas closed Manila to Japanese businessmen yesterday. Villegas contended 18 Japanese firms were operating in Manila under authority of a National Economic Council resolution that had been illegally adopted. It was expected the Japanese firms would move their offices to other locations including the new financial center in suburban Makati.

Production Up

TOKYO (UPI) — The Economic Planning Agency today estimated Japan's gross national product for 1967 at $115.7 billion. This represented an increase of 18.7 pers cent over the previous year and placed Japan in third place among nations behind the United States and West Germany. The agency estimated the United States' gross product at $781.2 billion and that of West Germany at $120 billion.

Protest Accident

LONDON (UPI) — About 400 workers at a London building site staged a one-day strike yesterday to protest "inadequate safety measures" they said cause the death of heart donor Patrick Ryan. Ryan, 26, fell 20 feet and died later of his injuries. His heart was transplanted to Frederick West last week in Britain's first such operation.

Super Jet Tests

EDWARDS AFB (UPI) — The XB70 research plane, forerunner of supersonic transports, will be flown this spring in a new series of tests by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The space agency said the tests would evaluate equipment designed to lessen structural vibrations during flight. The equipment, known as SST systems, would be used to improve the smoothness of the ride for passengers and to lengthen the fatigue life of the plane.

Patrol Captured?

TOKYO (UPI) — North Korea today said it had captured an armed patrol sent into the north by "U.S. imperialist aggressor troops."

The North Korean Central News Agency in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo said Communist sentries "instantly captured alive on the spot the whole group of arrogant bandits who intruded carrying various lethal weapons for murder and subversion."

The broadcast did not specify whether the men were Americans or South Koreans, but North Korea in the past has referred to South Korean troops as soldiers belonging to "the U.S. imperialist aggressor troops."

Aid To Miners

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. (UPI) — Rescue workers today sent food, water, blankets and oxygen tanks to 13 of 25 miners trapped deep inside a flooded coal mine since noon yesterday.

Rescuers also moved water pumps 800 feet inside the partially flooded main shaft — to within 1,900 feet of the entombed men.

Thirteen of the trapped men were in telephone contact with the surface and said they were in "fine shape."

It was feared 10 others were dead. The remaining two men were trapped in a small pocket surrounded by water and in danger of suffocation.

Czech Trouble

PRAGUE (UPI) — An official Czech newspaper today admitted the new liberal government of Czechoslovakia was having economic and political troubles with the Soviet Union. But it said it was "unbelievable" that Moscow would send troops to Czechoslovakia to prevent any anti-Socialist takeover.

Prace, newspaper of the Czech Trade Union, was commenting on a French press report that a Soviet general stressed at a recent meeting of the Soviet Central Committee that the Soviet Army is ready "to comply with its duty" in order to "safeguard Socialism in Czechoslovakia."

Climbers Safe

TIMBERLINE LODGE, Ore. (UPI) — Six veteran mountain climbers lost for two days and nights in a storm near the summit of 11,245-foot Mount Hood were found huddled in an ice cave yesterday. One was dead, and the others suffering from frostbite, shock and exposure.

The dead man was Robert E. Patterson, 32, the only one in the party of four men and two women, all of Portland, who had not previously scaled Oregon's highest peak.

Novato Council Votes Pioneer Park Start

The development of Pioneer Memorial Park on Simmons Lane in Novato finally got off the ground last night at a joint meeting of the Novato City Council and the parks and recreation commission.

The council voted $8,000 for the initial stages of planning the park by the firm of Riberia and Sue of Oakland. This was $7,140 for plans and $860 for inspection of work.

The vote was 4-1, with Councilman M. E. Babe Silva opposed. Silva said he felt the city staff was capable of designing the park and inspecting the work, and that the $8,000 could be used for park development.

The money is to come from the $12,000 the city has left from the 20-cent park tax levied four years ago.

The council voted 5-0 to spend some general fund money for the development of the park, the amount to be determined at budget time.

Meeting after the council adjourned at 11 p.m., the parks and recreation commission voted 5-1 to have Ribera and Sue start work immediately on the plans. These are to be presented to the commission at its June 3 meeting and to the public at a hearing on June 10.

Commissioner Harry Moore voted against it because he felt that the ideas of the public should be heard before the plans were drawn.

Commissioner John D. Kassenbrock countered, asking Moore, "why ask the opinion of a bunch of dingalings?"

The staff was instructed to prepare invitations to all civic groups to the public showing of the plans.

Edwin Grundstrom, president of the Novato Civic Foundation, told the council and commission earlier in the meeting that the foundation could raise about $30,000 in labor and donations to the park when the plans were ready.

The council also voted 5-0 to consider the commission's request for additional funds to plan Novato Creek Park at Novato Boulevard. The council will consider this with other budget items.

The commission originally asked for $3,250 for this planning item, but Ribera and Sue upped their price to $4,520 at last night's meeting.

The council named City Mgr. J. Julien Baget to represent the city at the general assembly Friday of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Paris Students Continue Rioting

PARIS (UPI) — Bands of student demonstrators fought police in scattered clashes early today in the left bank Latin Quarter of Paris where 460 were injured in 12 hours of bloody rioting yesterday.

Although the violence yesterday was sparked by the closing of Sorbonne University, there was concern the demonstrators would turn their attention to the Vietnam negotiations.

The riots grew out of a government decision to close the 700-year-old Sorbonne because of student protests there against the earlier closing of the suburban Nanterre extension of the university.

The Nanterre students had demanded reforms in the administration of the extension and changes in the structure of their classes.

The National Union of French Students, the largest group involved in the protests, called a student strike and said there would be more demonstrations this week.

The latest vandalism occurred Thursday night, deputies said. The extinguisher was found buried in sand about 20 feet from the vandalized bus.

Three days earlier, someone broke into the shop in the maintenance yard. Still earlier that week, thieves broke another school bus window to steal an extinguisher, deputies said.

Poor People's March Heads To Montgomery

SELMA, Ala. (UPI)—The Poor People's March today headed down the Jefferson Davis Highway, a one-time deadly trail for civil rights workers, on its way to the Alabama capital that was mourning the death of Gov. Lurleen Wallace.

More than 100 token marchers will ride in four old school buses to Montgomery, a 54-mile trip down U.S. 80, path of the 1965 Selma - to - Montgomery march led by the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. that resulted in the voting rights act.

Mrs. Wallace, whose husband, former Gov. George Wallace was a frequent adversary of King and other civil rights leaders, died early today after a long battle with cancer.

At Marks, Miss., where the other phase of the southern segment of the Poor People's March is organizing, about 500 persons will depart on chartered buses tomorrow for a four-day trip to Washington. This group is the main body of a crew that will construct a tent shantytown in the nation's capitol to house the marchers, due to converge on Washington this month from various places around the country.

A proposed mule and wagon train tentatively is scheduled to leave Marks Thursday, carrying more than 2,000 Negroes. A large number of the marchers plan to remain in Washington, leaving their Mississippi homes for good.

The caravan, which left Edwards, Miss., yesterday, arrived in Selma in the afternoon and was joined by several hundred Selma Negroes for a triumphant march into the Alabama town that was a civil rights battleground three years ago.

Rev. Ralph Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), had the marchers kneel after crossing the Edmund Pkettus bridge, where former sheriff Jim Clark's mounted posse, swinging nightsticks, turned back King and his demonstrators in a bloody melee in 1965.

King, slain by a sniper at Memphis, Tenn., April 4, was not hurt in the 1965 violence.

Prison Farm Escapee Object Of Marin Hunt

San Rafael police today were searching for an escaped convict they believed may still be in the area after a patrolman found a truck the inmate reportedly stole to make his get away from a Sonoma County prison farm.

The truck was found early yesterday on Tamalpais Avenue at Fifth Avenue and had been hotwired, said police.

It belonged to California State Parks and Beach Service which reported it stolen after convict Charles Mack, 41, was seen driving it away from Black Mountain Conservation Camp April 20.

Mack was serving a five years to life sentence for narcotic offenses. The truck had been parked at the San Rafael location for several days, said police, and collected a number of parking citations.

Bill To Halt Bay Fill Wins Big Test

SACRAMENTO — A bill to prevent open season on bay fill won a "do pass" recommendation today from the Senate Finance Committee.

The bill, by Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, would plug a loop hole in the 1965 law which created the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission. The loophole is that BCDC's power over fill permits expires next January when it makes its final report to the legislature.

Miller's bill would extend this power until 90 days after the final adjournment of the 1969 Legislature. Thus, it would give the Legislature time to enact new controls over bay fill.

The Governmental Efficiency Committee previously had amended the bill to exempt Emeryville from all fill controls, but Miller managed to win a voice vote on his motion to kill the exemption.

"The lid would be off," on fill, if the amendment was included in his bill, he argued.

Emeryville had argued that BCDC has not got the right to control the city's bay fill operations, Miller noted. The BCDC yesterday argued before the state Supreme Court that Emeryville must have a permit from BCDC to fill, Miller said, "for the matter is up to the court."

Joseph E. Bodozitz of Mill Valley executive director of the BCDC, said the exemption would have allowed Emeryville to fill some 200 acres for a housing project.

TALKS

that patience will be required of the people of the United States as well as the negotiators."

Lau was part of the vanguard of the North Vietnamese delegation. Xuan Thuy, recently recalled into the Hanoi government as a minister without portfolio, was expected to arrive Thursday as was Harriman.

As the North Vietnamese arrived diplomatic sources said the United States had given formal approval to the choice of the old Hotel Majestic as the site for the talks.

Lau, who has the rank of ambassador, was expected to visit the site before North Vietnam approves or rejects it. French police already were guarding the building which is now used as the French foreign ministry's International Conference Center.

A black French Citroen limousine of the North Vietnamese mission took Lau into town past the crowds of French Communist pro-Viet Cong sympathizers. There were no shouts of greeting and no North Vietnamese flags were in evidence because this was not a state visit.

French Premier George Pompidou raised the possibility of such action in a news conference at Tehran where he is visiting.

Pompidou said France does not wish to interfere with the affairs of other states but would be glad to help if problems arose. "The future will show," he said.

There was no reaction from the American and North Vietnamese delegations assembling for the talks would welcome any such mediation. Diplomats predicted long, tough sessions.

said today this will not free any portables, because those no longer needed at Old Mill and Park will be needed at other schools. The "pilot program" for the Richmond and San Francisco pupils plus 50 volunteer Mill Valley children would require six or seven more portables, he said.

At the March 25 Mill Valley board meeting, Superintendent Collins presented a report on the "rotational school" plan for Alto School starting perhaps in 1970. He said 70 to 100 minority children from other districts would be invited to enroll in it, with 25 of them to come from Richmond.

FEDERAL FUNDS

Federal funds would be available for such a project, he reported.

"We did not figure on next September at first," Superintendent Widel of Richmond reported today. "That would depend on funding for temporary buildings. But we would like to start as soon as possible, and we know Dr. Collins would like to, also."

Hollis gave a similar version. He said suggestion for the program came from the Mill Valley district and he assumed Collins had approval from his board for the September start if it could be funded.

WAITING FOR NOW

Collins said he has not proposed the pilot program to the Mill Valley board, however, waiting first to see if funds could be obtained from a foundation. He said if no commitment were received within three weeks, he felt no start in September would be possible.

"Many parents in Mill Valley want their children in integrated schools as the best way to become effective citizens of a democracy," said Collins. He said the program "is also an effort by many people in Mill Valley to recognize the responsibilities of suburban areas to the cities."

Subway Station's Financing Settled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco supervisors last night unanimously approved a financing plan for the $15 million Davis Street subway station.

The board voted to use increased taxes from redevelopment of the Golden Gateway area to pay off bonds which will be issued to fund the financial district station on Bay Area Rapid Transit District's Market Street subway.

taxes by $10 billion coupled with a $4 billion cut in federal spending. Johnson said the plan was acceptable to him and if lawmakers still insisted on making deeper budget cuts, they could seek to do so by amendment on the floor.

Johnson discussed the much improved prospects for his tax bill at a breakfast session with Democratic congressional leaders this morning.

Johnson called the mortgage legislation necessary because while the "need for homes is always there, no mortgage credit was to be found."

He said that never before in wartime had Congress refused to pass a tax measure to meet rising costs. The current economic picture is a "sad lesson of history," he added. "It is time to show America has learned its lesson."

Johnson said that the $10 billion tax increase is needed to pay for programs for both the cities and for the Vietnam war. He has proposed imposing a 10 per cent surcharge on tax bills figured under the existing tax rate.

The House-Senate negotiators are likely however to take some time working out details of the economic package.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Your Land Vs. My Land

Sam Smith's uncle willed Sam a vacant lot several years ago. Sam didn't think much of it, a steep lot next door to an older home. For years the lot burdened Sam. He had to keep the weeds down and the taxes up.

For the last eight years Sam did nothing aobout it, not even paying its taxes.

For a while Bill Brown next door paid some of Sam's taxes. Later he paid all of them on the lot. In 1955 Bill built a fence across the lot and along the side, partly to keep kids and dogs out. Bill's sign read "Private Property, Keep Off, No Trespassing.-

A couple of years ago the lot suddenly became valuable, and both Bill and Sam wanted it. In a lawsuit the court ruled that Bill Brown owned part of it. He got it by the rule of 'adverse possession. That is, he possessed or occupied the land for five years, claiming it as his own, and paying the taxes on it. Since Bill fenced in only a part of the lot, he got only that part of the land.

Usually the law frowns on someone who invades another's rights. But under the law of adverse possession, Bill could claim the land, for the law favors the fullest use of property. If an owner neglects his land and lets it go to waste, someone else can come on the land, use it for five years, asserting a claim to such use, pay taxes, and get ownership.

Under the law of "prescription" a person can gain a right of way or easement over another's land in much the same way: If he can use his neighbor's land as a right of way as it it were his own, he can gain a permanent right to use it for such purposes if he uses it for five consecutive years and claims a right to use. Usually, one need not pay taxes to gain a right of way or easement.

Both adverse possession and prescription must be done under a claim of right. If a person occupied land or used the neighbor's driveway with permission, there is no claim of right. A token dollar a year for use of a driveway or for putting up a fence clearly shows that there is landowner's permission and no claim of right.

tions into student unrest and charges of police brutality at Columbia University. The trouble began April 23 when students demanded a halt to construction of a new gymasium on park land facing the negro neighborhood of Harlem. Militant student leaders have refused to back down on their call for a university-wide strike and absenteeism of up to 55 per cent was reported today.

At Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., the university's administration has signed an agreement to increase Negro enrollment, establish seporate housing and meeting facilities for Negro students and increase African-American history teaching. The university now has 6,500 students of which 125 are Negro.

The administration acted after 60 Negro students had taken over the school's business offices Friday.

At predominantly Negro Cheyney State College in West Chester, Pa., abut 100 students remained barricaded inside the administration building. A spokesman for the students said their grievances did not involve a "black and white" problem. The spokesman said the students are seeking a "better curriculum, a better faculty and a better system of student finances."

Roosevelt University in Chicago was picketed by students and teachers yesterday after the school's president said he had decided not to employ Prof. Staughton Lynd full time.

Picketers charged the decision was based on Lynd's political beliefs.

Lynd, formerly of Yale University, aroused controversy when he made an unauthorized trip to North Vietnam in 1965.

A dispatch from Phu Bain said U.S. and South Vietnamese troops who have reoccupied the A Shau Valley have activated an airfield and are flying in massive supplies. The Allies also captured vast quantities of Communist medical and military supplies. U.S. losses in the entire operation were put at 82 killed and 608 wounded.

School's Fire Alarms Installed

First grade classes went on as usual at Sausalito's Bayside School today after completion yesterday of the fire alarm system. Work on the system was completed shortly after 5 p.m.

The school's new portable classrooms went into use April 23 but the fire alarm system was not installed at the time. Installation started April 27 after Fire Chief Charles E. Masten visited the portables at an open house and called the shortage to officials' attention.

Masten gave the schools until yesterday to complete installing the alarm or face a shutdown of the new portables.

The old Bayside School was abandoned for classroom use because of fire and earthquake hazard in the old frame building.

$5.7 Billion State Budget Still Stalled

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The election-year Legislature, bogged down in disputes over money and politics, today continued to struggle with Gov. Ronald Reagan's $5.7 billion budget and rival methods of balancing it.

The lawmakers, preoccupied with their own campaigns for re-election and with the battles for the Democratic and Republican presidential nominations, have shown no enthusiasm so far for passing controversial bills.

Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, chairman of the budget-writing finance committee, said he would hold a closed-doors session tomorrow to put the finishing touches on the spending program.

The budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 has been under consideration by subcommittees of the finance and assembly ways and means committees since Reagan submitted it in January.

Miller said his committee probably will complete work on the budget Friday and send it to the upper house floor.

In the Assembly, however, Ways and Means Chairman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, said the budget probably will not be ready for action by his full committee for about three weeks.

Only one major bill has reached the governor's desk in the 121-day-old session.

Reagan plans to sign that measure into law Thursday. It rewrites the state law governing the sale of stocks and bonds.

Joseph J. Rabb, 45, of 101 Third Street, Sausalito, said he was jumped by a man, aged about 30 and wearing white work trousers and white shirt.

He fell, fracturing his left elbow, but fought off his attacker and escaped in his own car which he drove to Marin General Hospital. He told police he had been in a number of bars in San Rafael last night.

Reagan Will Host GOP Strategists

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, already assured control of California's 86 Republican National Convention votes, gets a chance tomorrow to tell other GOP governors what he wants in the party's 1968 platform.

Reagan and five other governors are scheduled to participate in the first—and only—California hearing of a special platform committee of the National Republican Governors Association.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, now an announced presidential candidate, had planned to attend but pulled out after he entered the nomination race.

However, two eastern governors will attend—Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania and Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, the Republican Governors Association chairman. Gov. John A. Love of Colorado is the other regular participant.

The governors arrive tonight from hearings in Seattle and Portland.

Govs. Paul Laxalt of Nevada and Tom McCall of Oregon plan to participate in the San Francisco hearing—and in a $100-a-plate fund - raising lunch for area Republicans.

State sales taxes range from 2 per cent in Indiana, Louisiana, New York, Oklahoma, Texas and Virginia to 6 per cent in Pennsylvania, says the Commerce Clearing House.

Council Presses For Courthouse Answers

San Rafael City Council became anxious last night to know the possible fate of the courthouse.

Councilmen were already agreed the city should either buy the downtown property from the county when it becomes vacant, or arrange to exchange it for the city-owned maintenance yard in Francisco Boulevard.

Mayor C. Paul Bettnin instructed a letter go to the county asking the present status.

"This is the most important part of the real estate of San Rafael. What happens could affect the whole downtown area," he said.

Councilman Fred Jensen questioned the wisdom of the city becoming involved in "this real estate deal when you are taking on something in the region of a couple of million dollars."

He was in favor of private enterprise having some share in the trade but further discussion was halted by Bettini who commented it had all been said before. "I have not changed my mind one iota," he said.

Touching on the snags encountered by census takers in San Rafael, fellow councilmen explained to Councilman Jensen it was the state and not local officials who organized the door-to-door census.

Jensen had critized the "bunch of amateurs" who were having doors slammed in their faces and said the census should be undertaken by professionals. Herbert G. Hotchner, city planner, is in charge of the census.

Bettini said one difficulty was getting sufficient enumerators at the present pay of $1.75 an hour plus mileage.

The long sought-for dredging of San Rafael canal came a step nearer for a group of boat owners in the audience when the council approved their suggestion Washington representatives be asked to view the situation first hand.

Letters will go to Rep. Don H. Clausen, First District, and Rep. William S. Maillard, Sixth District, asking for a site meeting.

San Rafael City Council Also:

DEPUTY TREASURER — Appointed James McCown, finance director, as deputy city treasurer to act in the absence of the city treasurer, at no alteration in salary.

STANDARDS — Approved spending $500 for drafting uniform construction standards with the county and other cities in Marin.

FIREMAN — Authorized Michael Ford to the regular payroll as fireman beginning May 1 at a salary of $608.

BARRICADE — Granted Tanner Construction Co.'s request to barricade Canyon Oaks Drive where it enters Twelve Oaks Hills while homes were being constructed. The reason was said to be people stealing building materials.

WIDENING — Approved additional widening of South San Pedro Road in the joint Marin County-San Rafael project. The county said it was ready to call for bids and would open them in three weeks.

CLOSED — Granted a request from Radio KTIM to close B Street from Julia to Fifth Avenue Saturday and Sunday for an outdoor sports and boat show.

POLITICAL — In answer to a question on political signs, re-affirmed the policy of the city as allowing signs to go up on public property without a permit providing they caused no objections and were removed immediately after elections.

REZONING — Set July 1 at 8 p.m. as the date for a public hearing on a rezoning application by Karl F. Unterman who wants to change 1938 Fifth Avenue from single family and duplex residential to planned unit development and duplex residential.

HEARINGS — Set May 20 at 8 p.m. for the following hearings: rezoning of Marin Center, 4050 Redwood Highway; subdivision ordinance requiring undergrounding of utilities in new subdivisions; zoning ordinance amendment adding definitions covering care facilities and other amendments.

Traffic Safety Measures Asked For Marinwood

A traffic light and other safety measures are needed at the corner of Lucas Valley Road and Las Gallinas Avenue, the Marinwood Park and Recreation Commissioners decided last night.

The commissioners, headed by William Stewart, recommended the Marinwood Community Services District ask the county to re-evaluate the traffic conditions at the intersection.

The commissioners also appointed Stewart, Ralph E. Tischbern, Richard Bergner and recreation director William A. Gordon as a budget committee.

Gordon announced the following recreation activities:

Beginning folk guitar on Tuesdays at 4 p.m., intermediate-brushup folk guitar on Fridays at 4 p.m.; judo Thursdays at 4:15 and 5 p.m. for 6 year olds and up; tumbling on Thursdays at 3:15 and 3:45 for 3 to 5 year olds; sewing for adults on Tuesdays at 1:30; sewing for girls on Tuesday and Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.; arts and crafts on Mondays and Fridays from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Reedland Woods Zone Hearing Scheduled

Tiburon Planning Commission last night set a hearing for June 3 on whether to put the Reedland Woods Subdivision in the RO-2 zone, requiring half-acre minimum size lots.

The meeting, at 8 p.m. in City Hall, will also be a hearing on whether horses should be kept in residential zones, according to Phil V. Scott, secretary.

SAN RAFAEL'S BUDGET TIME

San Rafael City Council will begin its budget talks next week.

Councilmen will meet at city hall Monday at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the budget submitted by the planning and building departments. On that day they will set the dates for sessions involving the budgets of other departments.

County, Cities Split Highway User Taxes

Marin County's share of state highway users tax totaled $113,449 for March, it was reported yesterday by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

Additional distributions to Marin cities were: San Rafael, $21,117; Novato, $17,957; San Anselmo, $8,388; Mill Valley, $7,661; Larkspur, $5,412; Corte Madera, $5,381; Sausalito, $4,470; Tiburon, $4,099; Ross, $2,081, and Belvedere, $1,979.

Fire Line Project Action Postponed

Belvedere City Council last night reconsidered cost figures for an assessment district to construct fire mains, but put off action.

In a continued hearing, Mayor Thomas S. Price told councilmen that General Mgr. William B. Seeger of the Marin Municipal Water District has offered to help the city reduce costs by about $5,000 from a previous estimate of $63,000 for mains on Crest, Cliff and Eucalyptus roads.

Councilman John R. Moore objected to the city picking up engineering costs under a proposed new arrangement.

The council authorized Mayor Price to investigate further what participation the water district would consider in the construction and engineering costs.

The hearing was adjourned to the June 3 meeting, at 8 p.m. in the Community Center.

Mayor Price announced the reappointment to the planning commission of chairman George V. Banning, vice-chairman Leslie W. Graham, Cabell Gwathmey, William H. Rafter and Thomas E. Stanton Jr.

John H. Flint was reappointed as fire commissioner. Councilmen Moore and Merrit K. Ruddock were appointed to the council's finance committee.

Vice-Mayor Mrs. Sally Mathews was reappointed as council representative to the Association of Bay Area Governments and to the County-City Planning Council with Commissioner Banning.

Edwin J. Drechsel was reappointed to the Redwood division of the League of California Cities.

The Belvedere City Council Also:

VOGUE CLEANERS — Postponed to June 3, decision to sign and parking requirements for Vogue Cleaners at 1530 Tiburon Boulevard.

FIREHOUSE LEAK — Voted 3-2 to pay $900 for a repair job to the Community Center to correct water leaking into the fire department dormitory below. Contractor Filippo Construction Co. and architect Allen Steinau have agreed to pay $100 each toward the repair, Mayor Price said. Councilmen Moore and Drechsel opposed the motion.

COUNTY-CITY GROUPS — Decided to urge the county to proceed with a study of countywide balanced transportation.

FIREWORKS — Discussed whether to participate in a fireworks celebration on July 4 with Sausalito as requested, or with Tiburon, but put off a decision until June 3.

SET DATES — Proclaimed May 5 to 11 as "Goodwill Week" in the city, for discard pickups by the Goodwill Industries, Inc. Set May 23 and 24 as "cleanup week" when Mill Valley Refuse Co. will pick up trash on regular collection days in the city.

UNDERGROUND — Adopted unanimously an ordinance permitting the city to set up districts for the undergrounding of utilities.

ACADEMY APPLICANTS — Heard from visitor Mrs. Marion Otsea, field representative to Rep. William S. Maillard, R-Sixth District, that he is looking for applicants for service academies, for appointments starting July 1, 1969.

CLOSED SESSION — At City Atty. William Mackay's request, called a five-minute closed session at 11:10 p.m. to discuss "threatened litigation against the city." When the council reconvened, Mayor Price said no action was taken in the session. He did not disclose details of the discussion.

Sailor Must Answer On Auto Theft

A 22-year-old Treasure Island sailor, who allegedly burgled the home of a Terra Linda man and stole two of his cars that day, was arraigned on three felony charges in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Thomas Lee Hancock, 22, held in jail on two counts of car theft and one count of burglary, was to return to court to enter his plea.

Inspector William Bradford of the sheriff's office said, in an affidavit filed with the court, that the case began in San Francisco April 5, when someone stole the car of William Roumbanis of Terra Linda shortly before noon.

When Roumbanis returned from work that day, he found his house had been broken into. Several credit cards and his second car, a 1965 Chevrolet, were missing.

At about the same time, in San Francisco, Hancock was being arrested for reportedly trying to purchase some items with one of the Roumbanis credit cards. The stolen car was found a block away, Bradford said.

Steel Firm Gets Early Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Crucible Steel Corp. announced today it has headed off the possibility of being involved in a national steel strike this summer by signing a separate contract with the United Steelworkers Union.

Crucible President John C. Lobb, who has been an industry maverick ever since taking over the 15th-ranked specialty producer last year, said the agreement was cheaper than any strike.

Firemen's Union Discussion Set

Possible organization of a union of firemen in the county will be discussed at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. building at Third and Brooks streets, San Rafael.

All the fire fighters from various departments in the county have been invited to attend, according to a spokesman. Representatives of the International Firefighters, a CIO-AFL union will discuss forming a local of that union, he said.

The meeting will be repeated at the same time Friday so that men from all shifts may attend, the spokesman said.

Backs Study Grant

The Novato Planning Commission last night voted its approval of an application for a federal grant for a $45,890 planning study of the Novato downtown area. The application comes before the Novato City Council at 8 p.m., today.

TV Cable Firm Gets Scolding From Council

Belvedere City Council last night expressed its unhappiness with Cable Television of Marin and laid down ground rules for construction of a community antenna television service.

Earlier in the meeting, the council went on record opposing Senate Bill 456, which would prohibit cities from franchising cable services, such as the city has already granted.

Councilmen complained to Robert Lewis of the cable company, that he had not fulfilled several promises, such as preparing a written report before the meeting, obtaining an encroachment permit to cross land in Tiburon with the cable and having service ready to install in the southeast corner of the lagoon area.

Councilman Sally Mathews said she wrote the company Feb. 27 and had no reply. "You have done nothing to promote good will for this project in the community,' she said. Councilman Merritt K. Ruddock accused the company of being evasive.

The council discussed the possibility of getting another applicant for the service. But Jack J. McDonough from Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. said the original applicant would retain priority for a pole attachment with the telephone company.

Mayor Thomas S. Price said the cable company had been "unbusinesslike" and Lewis said "we will attempt to correct that."

Price then directed him to prepare written monthly progress reports, complete the laying of cable underground in the lagoon area and get an encroachment permit from Tiburon. "I can't understand your stalling," he told Lewis.

Lewis promised the service would be ready to hook up in the southeast corner of the lagoon by June 3.

Youth Arrested In Parking Lot

Two 19-year-old Corte Madera youths were placed under citizen's arrest by San Quentin Prison guards last night after they were reportedly seen snooping through confiscated cars in the auction section of the prison parking lot.

Gary Thomas Peterson, 19, of 5156 Paradise Drive, and Daniel William Caveney, 19, of 1595 Redwood Highway, were jailed on suspicion of auto tampering and tresspassing.

Guards at the prison told deputies that they caught the youths going through the cars, destined to be sold by the state. A third youth, seen with them, ran away, the guards said.

LBJ Appoints Panel To Improve Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson plans to set up a high-level committee to study the office of the presidency to "see how we can improve it, how we can strengthen it."

The President said the committee would be composed of members of his Cabinet, some who have worked in his administration and those of his predecessors, Presidents John F. Kennedy, Harry Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Official In Belvedere Decries Park 'Mess'

The Belvedere City Council last night had to urge a discouraged parks and recreation commission to stay on.

"The city parks are a mess and we wonder if Belvedere really needs a parks and recreation commission," said Chairman Roger Felton. "We have made recommendations to the council and nothing has happened."

Even though budget allowances for the commission have been approved, projects have not been completed, Felton explained.

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said requested maintenance of street landscaping and walking lanes was poor because of a small work crew. Mayor Thomas S. Price suggested the city hire a gardening crew in addition to the street maintenance workers.

"Belvedere should be an outstanding community for its parks but many areas are substandard," Felton said. "We are all discouraged on the commission."

Felton was discouraged about recreation too, saying the commission felt that Belvedere children didn't really need a work program in the summer and had "many opportunities" for recreation. "They would do better to help teen-ager who are less fortunate."

Councilman Edwin J. Drechsel urged the commission to being in "firm requests" for budget allowances for next year.

Mayor Price appointed, with council approval, Mrs. Samuel Mann to the commission to take the place of Mrs. Norma Buner who is moving away.

Kremlin Denies Link To Death

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government denied today that it had anything to do with Czech Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk's death in 1948.

The denial also charged some Czech as well as foreign newspapers with being "enemies of Socialist Czechoslovakia" in spreading reports that Soviet security men helped kill Masaryk, son of a founding father of modern Czechslovakia and a popular hero in his own right.

Belvedere May Buy Rail Lands

Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission will discuss tomorrow the feasibility of purchasing a strip of right-of-way property, from San Rafael Avenue to Cove Road, from the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

The commission meets at 8 p.m. in the Community Center.

The strip of land would be Belvedere's contribution to a proposed hiking and bicycle trail, for which Tiburon recently authorized Mayor William R. Bremer to negotiate with the railroad.

Studies, Field Trip For Proposed Budget

The Corte Madera Town Council last night scheduled two study sessions and a field trip on the proposed 1968-69 budget.

The field trip, to inspect potential improvement projects including parks, streets, a new corporation yard site and walkways, will start from town hall at 8 a.m. Saturday.

The council then divided further budget studies into two Town Hall sessions, one at 7:30 p.m. May 16 for considering public works and general government needs, and 7:30 p.m. May 23 on police and fire department needs.

The council has approved an employee pay schedule for the new year. The town has a current budget of $788,776 and a tax rate of 99 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher has said the new budget is expected to be about $760,439 with no tax rate change.

The extra revenue, he said, would go into a tax reserve fund and to the general fund.

The council also adopted an ordinance annexing the last of privately owned tidelands in Corte Madera, a 280-acre parcel adjacent to the east town limits on Paradise Drive. The territory involves six lots along Paradise Drive east of the Uplands apartments, and extends northward into the bay to Corte Madera Creek.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

REZONING — Held a hearing and introduced an ordinance permitting rezoning of a small parcel owned by Fred R. Sanford at intersection of Casa Buena Drive, Sanford Street, and Meadowsweet Drive from professional and administration to commercial. A Hyatt restaurant is proposed.

REPORT — Received a report of Lower Ross Valley Library Study Committee recommending a regional library for the Greenbrae, Corte Madera, Kentfield and Larkspur area. The council then referred the report to the county board of supervisors with suggestions it be followed.

MEMORIAL — Agreed to dismantle a veterans' memorial in Menke Park, and permit erection of a new memorial in Town Park.

MEETING — Agreed to accept an invitation by supervisors for a meeting to discuss bay front planning, including a proposed 250-acre park in East Corte Madera, and library and service problems for unincorporated areas surrounded by Corte Madera territory. The meeting would be sometime after June 18, the council said.

APPOINTMENTS — Mayor Edward W. Colthurst named the following council committees: Finance — Robert P. Simmons and Byron D. White; planning and development — White and Harold B. Wagstaff; police and fire — Wagstaff and Colthurst; public works — Simmons and Holmes S. Norville; League of California Cities — Norville; City-County planning commission — Simmons and Planning Commissioner C. William Thomas; recreation center management — White; Association of Bay Area Governments — Colthurst and Norville.

CELEBRATION — Granted permission to the Fourth of July celebration committee to string flag-bearing ropes across Tamalpais Drive from June 24 to July 5.

ORDINANCE — Introduced an ordinance changing the speed limit on Grove Avenue and a portion of Monticito Drive from 25 miles per hour to 20 miles per hour.

NOISE ABATEMENT — Agreed to notify Holtzinger Brothers Excavating Co., of Corte Madera, of city restrictions against operating heavy equipment on Sundays. Ian K. McDougall of 39 Alta Way, had complained of noise.

PARKING — Adopted a resolution calling for bids for paving of a parking lot in Town Park, West of the tennis courts. The lot will accommodate 70 cars and paving is expected to cost about $15,500.

POVERTY FUNDS — Took no stand on the county's request for suggestions on what agency should handle poverty funds. Council instead asked Usher to work with the county on the matter.

INSTITUTE — White and Simmons announced they will attend the biennial Mayors' and Councilmen's Institute in Orange County, May 19-21.

TRANSPORTATION — Endorsed the county's balanced transportation study, but agreed to further study on the proposed Marin County Transit District budget before taking a stand.

Boy Is Serious; Struck By Auto

An 8-year-old Greenbrae boy was seriously injured yesterday when he was hit by a car while crossing Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, west of La Cuesta Drive.

Alan G. Boyer, of 14 Corte Los Sambras, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bordon Boyer, was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital, with a cerebral bruise and a skull fracture.

The boy, a student at Wolfe Grade Elementary School, was apparently heading homeward at 3:40 p.m., ran across the road, and was struck by a westbound car driven by James J. Jachetta, 43, of 130 Bretano Way, Greenbrae, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Second-Story Additions Appeals Won

Two Mariner Cove residents, whose variance applications for second-story additions to their one-story homes went the full gamut of appeals in Corte Madrea, emerged victorious last night.

The rown council by a 4-0 vote upheld the joint appeal of Gene K. Royal of 69 Golden Hind Passage and Victor Rodriquez of 73 Golden Hind Passage over a planning commission ruling.

The fifth councilman, Byron D. White, was disqualified from voting because he was a planning commissioner when the matter was heard at that level.

Last night's decision, which followed a crowded and lengthy public hearing, permits the two residents to construct recreation-family rooms about 19 by 20 feet in presently unoccupied attic space. Neither has the required amount of side yard space for second story additions, and the subdivision in East Corte Madera is restricted to one-story homes.

A volley of comments, for and against, were sounded, with the majority backing the right of the applicants to alter their homes for additional space and improvement. Many declared that they too, may eventually wish to make additions.

Resistance came mainly from Howard C.Harvey, outgoing president of the Mariner Cove Improvement Association, who maintained the applicants failed to meet variance requirements.

Mayor Edward W. Colthurst said any attitude of "from this day forward there will be no change in Mariner Cove" was frightening and he is for judging applications for improvements on an individual basis. Councilmen Holmes S. Norville, Robert P. Simmons and Harold B. Wagstaff agreed.

The board of adjustments on Feb. 21 granted the variance requests. Members of the Mariner Cove association appealed to planners, and the adjustments board decision was reversed April 8.

Future Farmers Place In Contest

Teams from the Future Farmers of America chapter at Tomales High School won three fourth places and one fifth in state competition last weekend at the California Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo, according to Earl Smith, agriculture teacher at Tomales.

The parliamentary procedure team, the farm records team, and the swine judging team all took fourth place. The agriculture mechanics team placed fifth, Smith said.

In addition, the school had teams entered in dairy cattle judging, milk judging, land judging and farm power safety, Smith said.

Santa Cruz's School Budget Powers Given

The Marin County Board of Education heard last night a positive report on how semi-autonomy in fiscal matters aids a school system from board members of the Santa Cruz County school system, which has had control of its finances for three years.

Marin County Schools Superintendent Virgil S. Hollis is asking the Marin County Board of Supervisors to empower the board of education to draw its own budget and set a tax rate adequate for the budget. The supervisors would have veto power over the tax rate.

Dr. Richard Fickel, superintendent of the Santa Cruz schools, said fiscal responsibility has been a "happy arrangement" in his county. He said educational services used to be "viewed as a stepchild" by Santa Cruz supervisors, who are now pleased that the school tax is listed as a separate item, and a separate responsibility, on bills sent to the taxpayers.

Santa Cruz County board member Alice Wilder said her county's supervisors "were real glad to get rid of us, and we were real glad to get rid of them." One of the primary advantages to a school system with its own budgeting and tax-setting powers, she said, is that "you can have a continuity of program from year to year, without having to worry about it being chopped from the outside."

Dr. Hollis said that if the Marin County Board of Education gets such budgeting and tax-setting power from the supervisors, the biggest advantage will be that the school system will be able to "devote more time to education," and not so much time on budget affairs and similar matters in meetings with the county.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas Campanella attended the meeting to give an opposing view. He said the county and the school system had no trouble agreeing on this year's budget for the schools, and that since the school system already has increasing control over its financial affairs, there would be little purpose to granting the school system the powers sought.

He said that because Dr. Hollis is an elected superintendent, there might be confusion about who would get authority, Dr. Hollis or the school board.

"I don't believe education at the county level is an isolated vehicle, separate from the rest of the county government," said Campanella.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

ACCREDITATION — Heard from Principal Daryl Hopkins of the Bayview School at San Quentin Prison that the school has been accredited by the Western Association of Schools through 1970.

PILOT COURSE — Heard from Mrs. Mary Schmale of the Kentfield School District a report on a new pilot course for elementary school children called "Man A Course of Study." Making use of various media it teaches children the difference between humans and animals and seeks to answer the question, "What makes human beings human?"

LITERACY — Approved a resolution seeking federal funds under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act to conduct reading literacy classes for adults at Tamalpais High School. Asst. Supt. Stanley Friese said it is estimated there are 9,000 adults in Marin who do not read above the eighth grade level.

RETARDED — Approved a resolution asking for federal funds, under the Elementary and Education Act, to begin training of mentally retarded children before they reach school age. New techniques now detect mentally retarded children nearly at birth.

Personnel Board Delays Meeting

The next meeting of the Marin County Personnel Commission will be held May 23 at 3 p.m. in the planning commission chambers at the Civic Center.

The commission normally meets on the third Thursday, but all members cannot attend that day, personnel director Robert D. Elliott explained.

A request by Marin County probation workers for certification as a representation unit of Social Workers Local 535 will be the main item of discussion at the May 23 meeting.

Life Insurance for 20 year olds?

Definitely. This is the best time to buy life insurance. At the beginning of your career when the premiums are lower.

When you buy life insurance you create an estate of your own the moment you sign. Life insurance is also a sound investment. Thanks to compound interest, the cash value will keep increasing through the years giving you a "nest egg" for unforeseen emergencies.

Life insurance can also be used as collateral. For loans or business deals later.

Talk to the Man from Manufacturers. He'll discuss your particular situation with you and draw up your personal life insurance program. One with options so that up to age 40 you can add to it at intervals, including when you marry and when your children are born. You can make these additional purchases regardless of your health condition.

Twenty isn't too young to start your life insurance program. Some men even begin at 18. You have to start early when you're aiming for financial success.

A VETERAN of 20 years of amateur acting in Marin, Irene Pritzker has entered the field of directing. She is currently working on the Terra Linda Players presentation of "Blythe Spirit" scheduled to open Friday night at the Terra Linda Community Center.

Veteran Director Prefers Working On Amateur Stage

By JOAN LISETOR

"There is a great joy and pleasure in amateur acting. To be a professional, one must dedicate his entire life to the profession," advises Mrs. George Pritzker of Mill Valley, a veteran of 20 years on Marin County stages.

In addition to her performing in little theater groups throughout the county, Irene Pritzker has been directing children's theater for about 15 years; now she has turned to directing adults.

"I STOPPED directing children's plays mainly because there are not enough adequate scripts," she says. "Every time I would assemble a cast I would have to write a play to suit them. I just got tired of that and working with 80 to 100 children."

But, Irene Pritzker, who has been described as Marin's Pied Piper, couldn't completely disassociate herself from children. She still acts in children's plays, having just completed a tour with Magic Circle's production of "Jack and the Beanstalk." Irene also teaches at Pacific Day School in Mill Valley. She loves her work at the school with the children from nursery school age to third grade. "It's a child-oriented school," she explains, "with the ideas coming from the children. They learn through projects that they are interested in."

IRENE DESCRIBES herself as a devotee of amateur theater. She has had chances to go professional, but prefers amateur acting for its better parts and opportunities to work on all aspects: sets, scenery, costumes. It has also allowed her time with her family. Her son, Glenn, 20, attends the University of California at Irvine, where he is studying English and aspires to writing jazz columns. Robin, 18, also teaches at Pacific Day School. Her husband, George, began acting two years ago. He told her he never wanted to go into the theater because he would be better than she and over the years stayed home to babysit while the children were small. Now that they're grown, he has relented and is currently appearing in the Rhubarb Revue.

Recalling amusing experiences over the years, Irene remembers an actor with a minor role in a Cove Players production. "He was having a great deal of family trouble at the time," she recalls, "and one night show up extremely inebriated for a performance. When his cue came, I saw a hand push him out on the stage. He was to ask me several questions, and when he said nothing I began feeding him the lines, 'I suppose you're going to ask me . . .' He just stood there and nodded, and when the scene was over the hand reached out and pulled him offstage. The audience never knew what happened, but that hand certainly held that performance together.

The veteran actress feels the challenge of little theater is its limitations. You work with a very tight budget and the cost of renting the hall you want is usually prohibitive, so you find a place with a tiny stage. You rehearse in living rooms or school libraries, and the cost of sets and costumes causes you to become creative. You work with the materials you have, such as curtains, which she says make the loviest costumes.

IN THE Junior Theater of Marin, she used the same three folding flats for sets for 15 years. Sometimes additions were made to the scenery, and one memorable time was for Gilbert and Sullivan's Iolanthe. They needed a set for Iolanthe's rise from the sea, so the children went to the beach and gathered seaweed. "It looked great," she recalls, "but, oh, did it smell."

At Ohio Wesleyan (two years) and the University of Michigan, from which she was graduated, Irene majored in English and education, and minored in speech. She never appeared in any college productions. Her interest in acting has coincided with her two decades of living in Marin County. As a board member of the Mill Valley Center for Performing Arts, she is interested in bringing a high level of acting to the county, both local and outside talent. The board is unique in that it is sponsored by the city and concerns itself with all fields of culture: classical music, dance, art and films.

IRENE HAS concerned herself with all areas of the theater, and one not so successful venture into script writing was for a television workshop, "Faith of Our Fathers."

She had submitted a television script and received a call one day early in December to revise it for a show on Christmas Day. While everyone was enjoying the Christmas season,

Marin Hostess Has Tea For Debutante Niece

By MOLLY MARIN

Mrs. Richard Newell of Kent Woodlands honored her niece Robin McWilliams, at a large tea held Friday at the Francisca Club in San Francisco. Robin, the daughter of James McWilliams of San Francisco, a widower who will soon marry Ann Giannini, will be presented at the San Francisco Debutante Ball in June. Robin is a senior at the Katharine Delmar Burke School in San Francisco. Mrs. Newell received wearing a mint green frock, while the debutante was dressed in powder blue linen. Assisting at the tea table from Marin were Mesdames Frank Abbott and Warren Lawrence of Kent Woodlands, Peter Knowles of Belvedere and Murray Fox of Tiburon. The daughters of the hostess, Juliet and Evelyn, also assisted at the tea.

NOW IT CAN be told — the surprise of the evening for those attending the Belvedere Sailing Society's dinner-dance at the Corinthian Yacht Club Saturday was a chorus line of Lagoon lovelies trained by Mrs. Gerald Stratford. Dressed in white duck pants, striped shirts and white ties, the girls danced to an original number with lyrics tailormade for the Sailing Society Salts. In the act were Mesdames Stratford, Philip West, James Levorsen, Melvin Gautier and Eugene Raucher. Mrs. A. S. Love was the accompanist. Miss Barbara Egolian, soloist in the Sophie Tucker style, responded to the enthusiastic applause with two encore numbers.

BEFORE THE Belvedere House Tour Wednesday Mrs. Ralph Noah of Belvedere will entertain 12 guests at brunch. Mrs. Robert Morrison, who has also invited 12 friends to join her for the house tour sponsored by St. Stephen's Guild, will visit the six homes on the tour early and the party will return to the Morrison home for luncheon in the afternoon.

Family Income Favors U. S. Mother

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American mother has more for which to feel gratitude on Mother's Day than her counterpart in any other part of the world—if she measures gratitude in terms of family income.

"A single U.S. paycheck provides the American family with more food, clothing, shelter, education, appliances, automobiles and every other luxury that adds up to a better way of life than any other paycheck written. There is not even a close second."

This is the way a new publication puts it, after a 10-country survey of the cost of living.

In wages alone, in terms of U.S. dollars, she's budgeting a worker's salary that averages $2.74 per hour. In other countries, the average per work hour is: Canada, $2.43; Republic of South Africa (only white workers are reported on), $1.93; Australia, $1.68; Great Britain, $1.42; West Germany, $1; France, 80 cents; Russia, 55 cents; Argentina, 48 cents, and Japan, 46 cents.

CONSIDER THE work—wage rate for buying one food staple, bread. A loaf costs as little as three minutes in Australia, as high as 23 minutes in Russia and 16 in Japan. In the United States, it takes five minutes, in Argentina, nine, and in France, 15.

The look at the cost of living world-wide is done by American Labor, a new magazine to "present to our readers all the news of Labor and all of Labor's reactions to the economic news of the day." The publication, financed by independent capital, said it made the study "not to put foreign currencies against the buying strength of the U.S. dollar but to determine what these individual currencies could procure for the buyer in each individual land..."

Countries surveyed were the United States, Russia, Japan, France, Germany (West and East, except for wages in the East), Argentina, the Republic of South Africa, Canada, Australia and Great Britain. Communist China and India, the world's two most heavily populated nations, were not included "because there are no true figures...and the plight of the masses is too well known to make meaningful comparisons." Emerging nations were left out for similar reasons.

Russia a "worker's paradise?"

THE MAGAZINE said it is the world's second nation in terms of gross national product, but the "average family still lives on cabbage, soup, black bread, and tea . . . less than the balanced diet of a three-time loser in a U.S. prison."

In 1966, the skilled factory worker in Russia made about $108 a month, says American Labor. Salaries scaled on down among the unskilled for a 45 hour week.

For a dozen eggs, the Soviet shopper puts up 108 minutes of work per week. The U.S. counterpart, buying large Grade A white, puts up 10 to 12 minutes.

Vodka, Russia's national drink, costs the Russians eight hours for a fifth. It costs his U.S. counterpart an hour and one half.

New China Service Ready For White House Dinners

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — In a room at the Shenango Chinaware Co. workers are putting the final, delicate touches on some of the most carefully handled china in the country. They're making a new set of dishes for the state dining room of the White House.

The project has spanned 2½ years and the 2,256 pieces are to be delivered this month.

The cost is about $80,000. But don't fret, taxpayers. The White House Historical Society is paying.

There are 216 settings of 10 pieces each and each setting is costing about $325. Also, there are 96 serving bowls.

In case you're wondering what makes up a set of White House state dining room china, here's the list—service plate, dinner plate, luncheon plate, fish plate, salad plate, cup and saucer, cream soup cup and saucer and deep soup plate.

The current set has been in use since the Truman administration in 1951.

Fine Art And Fashion In Los Angeles

By JOAN SWEENEY

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—California designers mixed fine art with high fashions that ranged from ultra demure to dramatically daring at the premiers Sunday of their fall collections.

It appeared the "in" thing this season among the Los Angeles Fashion Guild's member designers was to show one's collection in an art gallery with a backdrop of paintings, prints and sculptures.

Michael Novarese, for instance, unveiled his "gallery collection," as he fittingly called it, at the Ankrum Art Gallery.

"I believe in fashion for fall that makes an important statement," he told his audience. "It's time for boldness..."

His offerings of evening wear, which he does so well, were dramatically varied. There was the prim charm of what he called his "Edwardian look"—high necked, long sleeved, lace overblouse of palest gray over long silk taffeta skirt, sashed and bowed at the waist with pink satin.

Then there was the daring of a long flared crepe skirt that fell at the hip from a bodice that consisted of some strategically looped braid. It was accompanied by a brief cape, which could come in handy if the wearer found the braid a bit too airy or the local constable a bit too narrow minded.

The coat and dress costume was still much in evidence for daytime and was dressed up for evening. Capes and jumpers also were popular with the California designers.

The silhouette was closer to the body as the waistline continued its comeback giving way to flared or gathered skirts. Sometimes skirts were gathered or pleated at the hip. Hemlines generally touched the top of the knee. There was only one lonesome midi.

Sleeves were often bloused with wide, wide cuffs or were narrow but flared at the wrist, in what Novarese called his "scapular" cuff.

Ruffles were everywhere as was jeweling for evening wear. For daytime, Novarese used black braid to trim necks and cuffs while Helga occasionally used leather.

Helga's dresses defined the waist and were often belted loosely with chains or leather or tortoise shell but, according to Helga president Walter Oppenheimer, all were constructed so they could be worn without the belt for those women resisting the return to the waistline.

HELEN HELP US!

She Can Knock It Because She Tried It Once–Marijuana

DEAR HELEN:

I tried marijuana. My only reaction: disappointment!

Here I'd risked a felony charge, maybe a jail sentence, and a record that might knock me out of college and good jobs. For what? A high so low I could have done better on two swallows of wine!

So I started asking around. Know what I found out? More than half the persons who try pot get nothing from it. Others admit the high they feel is mostly from being with a group that expects it — sort of a self-hypnosis thing. I didn't find one experimenter who reported a real psychedelic experience. Mostly they said the effects were nothing much, a kind of lethargy that lasts no more than two hours and often never comes at all. Some said they understood more deeply under pot, but pinned down, they conceded they felt about the same after a couple of beers.

It's possible that the grass students can get is so cut it's worthless. Maybe the real stuff might produce the highs we read about. All I can say, from my experience and my research, is: "Marijuana, Hokum! It's heap big smoke, not much fire."

That's why so many try it once or twice, then forget it. Since I started my research, I've been amazed at the number of people curious enough to risk getting busted, then so disillusioned they wondered why they bothered.

Of course, feature story writers don't hear this side of the story often since one-time users aren't about to get involved. So the reporters talk only to constant users, maybe pushers, who have a financial stake, or a real dependency on drugs. These people naturally paint pretty enticing pictures, and the word spreads, so the tempted (like me) experiment.

Well, I tried pot and I'm glad, because now I know I'll never try it again. Not only does it send me absolutely nowhere, but it leaves a miserable taste in your mouth, it smells sickening, and I inhaled so deeply, trying to get the most out of the joints, that my bronchial tubes (or whatever) were sore for two days. — OTHER SIDE OF THE PICTURE.

DEAR OTHER — AND OTHERS:

Yours is a composite letter, compiled from over a dozen I've received on the subject of "Marijuana — Hokum!"

I've asked several teen friends to gather local opinions, completely anonymous, of course. Their reports tally with yours; except among a few, they say, the general viewpoint on pot is, "It's not what it's smoked up to be."

True, anyone who wants marijuana can get it, but, they add, the majority don't want it more than once, for two reasons: 1. They're "paranoid" (afraid of getting busted), and 2. It's nothing much, therefore not worth the risk.

NOTE TO READERS:

I'd like many more reports on individual reactions to pot, for I think this side of the picture rates exploring. You needn't sign your names or addresses, and your letters will be kept completely confidential.

May I hear from you? — H.

"P.S. You know, I'm beginning to believe marijuana is like "making out" in the back seat of a car. It's vastly over-rated, but few let on, because they're either ashamed to discuss it, or afraid they're the different ones, and somehow abnormal.

Again, I'll be waiting for your letters, whether you agree with what I've just written or not. — H.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram C. Dustman of Novato are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Dorinda, to Paul Raisanen of Fort Bragg, Calif.

Dorinda, a stewardess with Eastern Airlines with New York City as her base, was graduated from Novato High School and Chico State College. She is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority. John Dustman, a student at Chico State College, is her brother and her grandmother is Mrs. John Moller of San Leandro.

Paul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Raisanen of Fort Bragg and the brother of James Raisanen. He was graduated from Fort Bragg Union High School and attended the University of Helsinki, Finland, and was graduated from Chico State College.

Shirtdresses

The '68 shirtdress, unlike the severely tailored shirtwaists of the past, is newly interpreted in more feminine fabrics and softer lines. In one-piece versions, the shirtdress is most often seen in sheer cottons like embroidered dimity or flower-strewn lawn.

FASHION'S DARLING

Model Penelope Tree Shops For Second Hand Wardrobe

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Penelope Tree rates as high fashion's newest darling but insists she couldn't care less about playing the role.

"I hate fashion...you know, high fashion," said this 18-year-old modeling daughter of the United Nations' Marietta Tree. "I mean a woman's trying to emulate a page in a fashion magazine." Miss Tree says thusly, even as she appears steadily in Vogue in some pretty far out poses. But she said, "You can't look like Vogue. It doesn't want you to. It just wants to show what individuality is."

"I BELIEVE in a look of one's own," the tall (five feet 10 inches), gangling (115 pounds) model said. "You know, go to a thrift shop, buy a piece of old curtain goods. Buy clothes, then forget about them. Change often. Don't worry about discarding."

Miss Tree was practicing her credo the afternoon we had tea at the Plaza Hotel. She wore a long sleeved blouse in tones of mauve and white.

"I think it was somebody's nightgown at one time," she said. "I found it in Chelsea (London). The black belt? (trimmed in glitter). It's off one of mother's old dresses. Mother's a conservative about clothes though. I'm rather angry about that."

AROUND HER NECK, Miss Tree had strung a rectangular plaque on a long chain—it was a bronze calendar from Nepal, she explained, and was a gift. The knee-high boots and pink tights, the suede skirt with deep fringe all were original Tree, not thrift shop finds. The skirt reflected her interest in the culture of the American Indian.

Also original Tree was the mane of straight dark hair worn sleeked back from a wide forehead and falling almost to her waist. Fake were the full lashes on the upper lids, half a pair attached to the outer edges of the eyes below.

The look of this girl with the huge brown eyes definitely is her own, a theory of looks she preaches in a couple of television commercials she has made for a cosmetics firm. She has signed up for three years with the firm as a beauty and fashion consultant.

"EVERY WOMAN has at least two good features," said the consultant. "Study your face...accent those good features."

Miss Tree's role as a model began with a party more than a year ago. She was leaving, and waiting for her coat. So was Richard Avedon, whom she'd never met. He's the photographer who's snapped a thousand beauties' faces and pictures for high magazines and if Avedon says a face has possibilities, it's like an endorsement from the gods.

Avedon put her to work and her first pictures appeared in Vogue last July. She doesn't think the fact that she is Marietta Tree's daughter had anything to do with it. "I was just lucky," she said.

Mrs. Tree, a Massachusetts blue blood and wife of a British blue blood, Ronald Tree, is the U.S. representative on the UN's Human Rights Commission. "Mother just clenched her teeth when I told her I was going to model," she recalled.

PENELOPE TREE was educated at Dalton, a progressive school in New York, and at the United Nations School. One day, she said, she will go back to formal education at Sarah Lawrence College.

Right now, she's commuting between New York and London, where she has taken a flat. "If you walk around the corner, you can see Kensington Palace," she said. Kensington is the home of Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon.

She's not had time to furnish her new home—"I'm sleeping on a rabbit rug," she said. And it looks as if there won't be much time soon. In the fall, she goes to the Orient for the fashion magazine.

"But I have the energy because I like so much what I'm doing," she said. "I think the reason people go to bed at nine o'clock is because they're bored with their job. They're not really tired."

FASHION'S NEWEST darling is Penelope Tree, who says she couldn't care less about playing the role. "I hate . . . high fashion . . . I believe in a look of one's own," says she. Here she wears a long sleeved blouse ("I think it was somebody's nightgown at one time"), fringed skirt, pink tights and knee-high boots. (UPI Telephoto)

She Directs Amateur Actors

I was rewriting, assembling a cast and rehearsing the show. The TV station only had two cameras and while wondering how they were going to manage four scenes, I went out to watch it on the monitor. There were some other people already there watching, and one turned to the other and said, 'Isn't that the worst thing you ever saw?' They were right," she says, "but we received a fan letter from a little old lady who said it inspired her."

Marin audiences will enjoy her talents for many years, because she says, "I love acting, and it will last me until I'm an old lady. Now that my children are grown and my husband has become involved, I can really relax and enjoy it."

ON THE AGENDA

Council To Present Demonstration Of Abstract Floral Arrangement

The Judges Council of Northern California will present Mrs. Sheila Macqueen in a floral arrangement demonstration at the San Carlos Theater in San Carlos tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. She will be introduced by Mrs. R. L. Tuckey of Kentfield, who is also Marin reservation chairman.

MRS. SHEILA MACQUEEN

Mrs. Macqueen is from Hertfordshire, England and has assisted with the flower arrangements for Queen Elizabeth II's wedding and coronation. She will demonstrate period arrangements for all occasions using garden flowers and showing the new trend toward free style and abstract arrangements.

Among Judges Council members planning to attend from Marin are Mesdames Esther McDonald of Fairfax and Lee Wakefield of Novato.

THE MEMBERS of Genessee Council 180, Degree of Pocahontas, will be celebrating the 46th anniversary of the council's institution on Friday evening with a dinner for members and their husbands at Gregory's Restaurant in Corte Madera. Mrs. Julia Tartaul is reservation chairman.

Genessee Council 180 was instituted by past great pocahontas, Lottie Hughes, a member of Majella Council 152, Los Angeles on May 10, 1922, in the Odd Fellows Lodge Building in San Rafael. It has progressed all these years in doing philanthropic work with retarded children and the veterans in California and helping with the scholarship fund for the junior degree of Anona.

ALL UNAFFILIATED PEO Women living in Southern Marin are invited to a luncheon meeting at 12:15 Friday. The event will be held at the home of Mrs. Daniel A. Richards, 109 Howard Drive, Tiburon. Mrs. Harold Vogel of San Rafael is assistant hostess. A convention report will be given by Mrs. J. Howard Heginbotham of Tiburon and information about Cottey College by Mrs. Harold Vogel.

MRS. MAX Thelen Jr., president of the Marin Civic Ballet Association for the past three years, will be honored at luncheon tomorrow by Mrs. John Prescott of Goodhill Road, Kent Woodlands.

Mrs. Thelen, a graduate of the Connecticut College for Women and School of Fine Arts in San Francisco, has devoted her many talents and energies to the establishment of the Marin Civic Ballet Company. Under her leadership, the association has bought and paid for five new ballets and costumes, sent the company to Sacramento, Laguna and Oakland for ballet festivals, provided four performning experiences for the dancers every year, and published a newsletter.

The mother of four, Mrs. Thelen is also an accomplished artist, currently exhibiting in Ross and San Anselmo and working toward her first one-man show. She is also a member of the program committee of Fair-Marin, board member of Junior Theatre and Parent-Teacher Association of Coleman School, and a member of the Marin Society of Artists.

EDITH DALLE/FESTE, world traveler and lecturer, will speak on "Leningrad and the Living Art of Scandinavia" at Thursday's 12:30 p.m. home day luncheon meeting of the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

Born in Yugoslavia of Hungarian parents, Edith traveled during her childhood in various countries with her father, who was in the foreign service. She studied in Switzerland and France and other countries. At the University of Zagreb she studied international economics and political science.

She escaped from the Communists after the war and went to Italy, where she started working on cruise ships as a social hostess and made voyages to all parts of the world.

She is also a linguist, having mastered seven languages. Traveling is still one of her major interests, since she and her husband own a travel agency in San Francisco.

Decoration of the clubhouse will be done by Mesdames Kenyon Spalding and Erling Michaelsen. Luncheon will be prepared and served by Mesdames Harold Jolley and Robert Cook.

ON THURSDAY at 11 a.m., the United Prebyterian Women of the San Rafael Presbyterian Church will meet in Canoles Hall for their monthly luncheon meeting. The change in time is to allow for a social hour from 11 to noon to meet and talk to the new minister, Rev. Charles C. Griffin. The program is "Life and Time in San Quentin," with James Park, associate warden, the speaker. The May Circle, with Mrs. Alfred Hoffman, chairman, will be luncheon hostesses.

A "BOUQUET OF Fashion" luncheon will be held Wednesday by parents and pupils of Hidden Valley School of Sleepy Hollow at Sabella's restaurant in Mill Valley. Co-chairmen are Mesdames Leonard Madison and Peter Slaby, and Mesdames Robert Pool and Douglas McBride are reservations chairmen. Other committee members are Mesdames Melvin Fuller, Michael Looper, Irwin Kaufman, Bruce Hanna, Bryant Miley, Albert Giusto, Edward Caulfield and Wallace Painter.

Nave Seeks $362,000 From Bank

William F. Nave Sr., North Marin businessman, yesterday filed a $362,000 cross-complaint suit against the Lincoln National Bank, which last month sued him for $124,300 — money it claims he owes the bank on promissory notes.

Nave, who owns a Novato shopping center and a bowling alley and restaurant near Hamilton Air Force Base, said the promissory notes he signed are not yet due.

The money was borrowed as part of an agreement, sought by the bank, that he would deposit his personal funds and funds from Nave Lanes in commercial accounts at the bank.

In exchange for these accounts, he said, the bank was to loan up to $200,000 to Nave and his sons, with the loans eventually being combined into a single, long term loan with repayment over a period of seven years.

In demanding payment now, Nave said, the bank has reneged on its agreement.

Groups To Meet To Form Health Planning Council

Representatives of about 100 Marin organizations will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center to form a comprehensive health planning council.

County councils are being formed throughout the Bay Area to meet new federal requirements for coordinated use of federal health care dollars. A Bay Area regional council is to be formed.

The new federal requirements will be explained by Dr. R. Leslie Smith of San Francisco, an assistant U. S. surgeon general.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors has approved a temporary board of directors to get the local council formed.

Revolver Takes Three Lives

YUBA CITY (AP) — An old model revolver took the lives of three persons in a bar in a weekend shooting police said involved a man and his former girl friend.

The victims were Christine Chance, 42; Reuben L. Ridinger, 54; and Johnnie C. Harger, 60.

Witnesses told police Harger entered the bar Saturday, found Ridinger sitting with his former girl friend, made a remark, then shot the pair with the gun. Both died.

Innocent Pleas To Cashing Bad Check

Joe and Bonita Henderson of Long Beach pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge that they cashed a $145 bad check July 4 at Hanna Leather Co. in Sausalito.

Jury trial for the man and wife was scheduled for the week of June 10.

Aid To Negro Colleges Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "massive upsurge" in private contributions to predominantly Negro public colleges is being urged by the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

"Despite their many contributions to society," an association spokesman said, "these institutions are the forgotten colleges when it comes to private support."

Appealing specifically to corporations and other sources of philanthropy, an association statement said private contributions constitute less than one per cent of public Negro colleges' income.

Jail Term On Welfare Chisel

A 42-year-old San Rafael woman, who failed to report income while on the county's welfare rolls, must pay for that crime with nine months in county jail.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court imposed this sentence yesterday on Hazel Mae Oliver of 77 Woodland Avenue, Apt. 4.

She pleaded guilty to a grand theft felony charge, filed for her non-disclosure of income while drawing general welfare, in his court March 12.

The judge yesterday sentenced her to a year in jail, suspended that sentence and placed her on three years of probation, with the conditions that she spend nine months in jail and make restitution to the county social services department as directed by her probation officer.

David C. Bonner of 1043 Turner Drive, Novato, reported to Novato police that his home was entered between 9 p.m. Friday and 11:30 a.m. Saturday and $50 worth of soft drinks, liquor, a camera and film were taken.

Drugs Sale Denials Made

Three men denied in Marin Superior Court yesterday that they sold marijuana and methedrine to agents of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau.

They were Fred Mark Ambrozie of Sausalito, Steven Elvin of San Francisco and Jean Paul Pickens of Largunitas, all arrested Feb. 23, at the start of the bureau's countywide narcotics roundup.

Pickens pleaded innocent to charges he sold a kilo of marijuana for $120 and a plastic bag of methedrine for $30 during February. His jury trial was scheduled for July 22.

Scheduled to begin the same day was a jury trial for Ambrozie, who pleaded innocent to a charge that he sold a kilo of marijuana at a Sausalito houseboat Feb. 6.

Elvin denied charges that he sold marijuana Feb. 15 and possessed it for sale Feb. 23 in his yellow truck, parked near Gate 5, Sausalito. His jury trial was scheduled for the week of Aug. 19.

Rights Group Sets Election

The Marin Human Rights Commission will hold its annual election of officers at the regular meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in the board of supervisors' chambers at Civic Center.

Current chairman is James Quiett of Marin City, who has served for two years, and the vice chairman is Mrs. Bella Aaron of Sausalito.

Austin J. Thompson, executive director of the commission, said the commissioners will also discuss the statewide human relations conference held in Sacramento on April 25 and 26. Thompson, Mrs. Aaron, Mrs. Tommie Scott, Rev. Francis Geddes and Troy Lewis attended the conference.

Shoppers Sought In Theft Case

A male shopper and his woman companion were being sought yesterday by Corte Madera police for the Saturday theft of $175 cash from Luana's Dress Shop, 62 Freeway Street.

Officers said Elsie Rodriques, a store employee, said $150 was missing from the cash register and $25 from her purse at the store shortly after the couple departed.

The man was described as about six feet tall and in his early 20s. The woman was described as five feet tall, weighing 100 pounds, and also in her early 20s.

Wornum Asks Review Of Marincello

Plans for Marincello, a "new city" for 20,000 persons on the hills above Sausalito, should be immediately reviewed for rezoning by the board of supervisors, a candidate for supervisor said last night.

Michael Wornum, seeking the Third District seat, called for the review at a coffee session in the home of Dr. and Mrs. William G. Obata of Mill Valley.

Noting that Marincello's developers are involved in a tangle of law suits over "broken promises," Wornum said the suits show Marin "has no assurance" that the developers' promises to the county will be kept.

Wornum, who fought against the development in 1966, said Marincello plans should be "reviewed to see if the area can be developed in a manner more compatiable to Marin's interests."

"Marincello was pushed upon Marin by eastern developers," Wornum said. The development was to be a self-contained city offering employment to its residents, he said. "Now Marincello representatives state there will be a great flow of commuter traffic," added Wornum.

Other coffees for Wornum will be at 8 p.m. today in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert LaFontaine, 15 Upper Alcatraz Place, Mill Valley, and at 10 a.m. Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bastian, 11 Maybridge Road, Belvedere. A wine tasting party for Wornum will be held at 8:15 p.m. Friday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Isaac Silberman, 762 Summit Avenue, Mill Valley.

Organ Valued At $1,000 Is Stolen

A $1,000 organ from a rock group was among the items reported stolen in San Rafael during the weekend.

Police said Emilio Castillo of Fremont, a member of the Motowns, reported his group had set up instruments for a dance Friday at Marin Catholic High School when the Vox organ was stolen.

William C. Shute of 95 Medway, San Rafael reported the theft of a $200 diamond ring and $35 in cash from his home during the past 10 days.

Machines Stolen

Burglars stole two electric typewriters, a dictating machine and an adding machine from the offices of attorney Hugh Lawrence Thursday night or early Friday, Sausalito police reported yesterday. The equipment was valued at $975 total. Lawrence's office at 1396 Bridgeway is also campaign headquarters for Michael Wornum, candidate for Third District supervisor.

'Anything Goes' Is A Goer In Novato

By THERON A. NEWELL

The well-known music of Cole Porter came to life this weekend when the Novato Community Players presented "Anything Goes" at the Novato Community house in a smooth-running rendition of the musical.

Vivienne Terry, as Reno Sweeney, captured the audience and projected the music except for one occasion, in "I Get A Kick Out of You."

The chorus was the best that the players have put together. When they sang, "Blow Gabriel, Blow," the mechanical aids could have been shut off because the walls shook with the music.

The long time favorite of a generation, "Friendship," with Mrs. Terry, Donald Leaf and Art Bliss, took those past 40 back to the days when that was one of the most popular of the songs of the 1930s.

TAP DANCING

People who appreciate the old time tap dancing at its best would have enjoyed the excellent exhibition of Jeanne Hall.

A number which could only be described as delightful was that of Mrs. Terry and Scott Wright doing "Let's Misbehave." Wright's scene with his shorts made out of the British Union Jack was hilarious.

"All Through the Night," with Arthur Bliss and Rose Michaelson, and "Be Like the Bluebird," with Donald Leaf should also be mentioned as highlights of the show.

Louise Cook as Bonnie comes through with enough volume, but her accent is so pronounced that her words are undistinguishable to the audience.

The entire production shows the result of long rehearsals. The timing is excellent and the 11 scenes follow each other without any drag.

LONG REHEARSALS

Those unfamiliar with the subtle quips of P. G. Wodehouse's dialogue could not know the hours of rehearsals it took to get it to roll off as easily as presented by the entire cast. The slang and comic expressions of one generation are hard to put across to another, but this was successfully done.

Director Joseph Jacob will probably have the few flaws in the show ironed out when it is presented again at 8:30 p.m. Friday, and Saturday, and May 17 and 18.

Musical director Marie Bliss and the small musical group gave the effect of a full orchestra. It should also come in for a share of the credit for a smooth-running production.

Festival Theater To Bring Rights Review To Students

Festival Theater will take its actors and props to Drake High School Thursday for a special performance of its Project III sponsored review, "Meet the People."

Originally presented in Hollywood in 1941, "Meet the People" was produced as an all-white review on the theme of human rights.

Festival Theater's version, with an all-Negro cast, will be presented to the entire Drake student body as a special assembly program.

"The material is nostalgic and new and fits into the civil-human rights theme," said Lou Casazza, Drama instructor. "The thread of theme is spun by the stylist form of presentation combining the traditions of minstrel, variety, and vaudeville."

Directed by Robert Adler, and choreographed by Danny Duncan (Randall in "Slow Dance on the Killing-Ground"), "Meet the People" is a series of songs, dances and sketches. Portable scenic effects will be the work of Owen Orser.

"The aim of the Title III program is to involve the total school population in the influences of the medium of theater," Casazza said. "By bringing the review to the schools, the students who are not theate-oriented will become exposed."

Students' Choir Concert May 15

A range of music from Bach to a cowboy lament will be sung by the San Rafael High School a cappella choir at the annual spring scholarship concert at 8 p.m. May 15 in the school auditorium.

Byron Jones will conduct the choir, and Mrs. Alfred Thomson will accompany the singers.

The choir will sing as a unit a cappella. A men's and women's chorus and a chamber choir made up of some of the members of the entire choir also will perform.

All proceeds will go toward vocal scholarships and to buy blazer jackets for the choir, according to Jones, who is director of vocal music for San Rafael schools.

Oils On Display

Six oil paintings by Marguerite Norville of Corte Madera are on display through May at the Paradise Coffee Shop, 5631 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera. Mrs. Norville was a former librarian in Missouri before taking up oil painting three years ago.

Navajoland, largest American Indian reservation in the United States, is northwest of Gallup N.M.

Mime Troupe Plans Fight To Perform

The San Francisco Mime Troupe last night promised to take the City of Mill Valley to court over its denial of a permit to the controversial players to perform in Old Mill Park.

"We'll see you in the park or we'll see you in the courts," R. G. Davis, troupe director, told the council.

Vote to deny was 4-1 with only Councilman Rodric Robinson supporting the mime troupe.

Grounds for denial — as outline by Councilman Robert Andresen — included a conflict of dates with the Mill Valley Optimist Club's annual trout fishing derby, the fact the mime troupe would attract large audiences and because the troupe would ask for donations at the end of its play.

In March, the troupe asked for permission to present two plays in the park on May 18-19 and June 8-9. The plays would be one hour long each, starting at 2 p.m., Davis said.

The request was approved by the city's arts commission and parks and recreation commission and passed to the city council for final approval.

Davis told the council that denial on the basis of the donation request alone would be unconstitutional. He was supported by American Civil Liberties Union attorney Paul Rosenthal of Mill Valley.

City Attorney Leland H. Jordan said the city could deny the permit only on grounds that would apply to all groups seeking similar permits.

He also said the city can prohibit admission fees from being collected but that he hadn't researched the question of donations.

Objections from the audience were limited to traffic and parking concerns despite assurances from Davis that the plays would only attract 150-200 people. The trout derby will bring 1,000 children, he told the audience.

A Rental Show

Art work from oil paintings to sculpture will be up for rent or sale at the spring rental show of the Marin Society of Artists scheduled for May 19 at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross from 2 to 5 p.m. Handicrafts including pottery, jewelry and mosiacs will be on sale only.

Ordinance For Mill Valley Tidelands Area Introduced

In anticipation of completing the 137-acre high school-tidelands annexation, the Mill Valley City Council last night introduced an ordinance establishing zoning.

City Mgr. Bert Balmer said he expects to file the annexation with the secretary of state within a week. Attorneys for the owners and the city attorney are arranging to drop the lawsuit which has blocked annexation three years, Balmer said.

Under the ordinance, the commercial strip allong the west side of Highway 101 will be general commercial, Tamalpais High School will be open area, and the vast middle area, the tidelands, will be commercial-recreational.

The annexation was first sought by the city in early 1964 and approved by the local agency formation commission in late December of that year. Property owners then filed a suit to stop it.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

CONTRACT — Awarded a contract to Alf Burtleson of San Francisco to construct the Sutton Manor lift station on a low bid of $16,427. The project will be financed by sewer bonds.

SETTLEMENT — Accepted a $3,000 settlement from Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church for the Hillside Avenue slide of 1967.

Citizens' Push On Civil Rights Is Recognized

After an hour-long discussion, the Mill Valley City Council last night agreed to recognize a citizen's ccommunity relations committee in the city.

Vote on recognition was 3-1 with Councilman George Wickham abstaining and Councilman Robert Andresen voting no.

Andresen said he was voting no, "not because I'm opposed to human rights but rather because this will diversify the effort."

The committee had been organized by a group of some 30 residents following the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Members of the committee presented a petition to the city council on April 16 asking the city take direct action on various civil rights problems including unemployment, housing and education.

Both Andresen and Wickham consistently opposed the formation of any local group as being in conflict with the county's effort through the human rights commission.

However, Austin J. Thompson, executive director of the commission, said he saw no conflict since the committee nas indicated they would cooperate with his commission.

Thompson said the commission has been considering establishing "mini-boards" throughout the county to gain greater participation in civil rights by local concerned residents.

"Many people in Marin want to do something but don't know quite what to do," Thompson said. "This will develop the structure for them."

"We're not setting up a city agency, just telling these people God Speed," Robinson said. "We have blinders on if we don't realize the human rights problem affects all of us. There can't be too many people involved."

"I want to know what we're really endorsing . . . this just muddies the water," Wickham said.

Wickham also said the committee membership was too limited despite repeated statements from committee representative Rev. Murray Hammond that the membership is open to any interested resident.

"Every time a committee comes before us it is always the same people," Wickham said. "It's getting so one group is representing the thoughts of Mill Valley."

He said he wanted to review committee membership before he would support it.

PARENTS: THIS SUMMER LET READAK
Help Your Child to New Success in School

Learn how a summer study program can unlock your child's unused potential

A little boy from San Francisco wrote us this note recently:

"I enjoyed your classes very much. But the time seemed to go by so fast! I partly wish I wasn't fixed up yet so I could go on with the classes. But I know what you have done for me will be a big help afterwards. And I'll learn how to divide just for you."

His instructor, Bill West, is still on our staff.

Course Outline

We don't just "fix up" children. We also teach 'A' and 'B' students how to read with greater comprehension, and how to read faster. One year the Valedictorian of Los Altos High School took our course, and went on to Stanford. We present courses at some of the toughest college preparatory schools in California.

Children of all ages are helped by reading improvement. We have small classes for second, third, and fourth graders. Fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth graders take our special courses. High school students know they must read well in order to get good grades. And get into college.

Readak speed reading programs have shown many adults how to read faster and understand more. Our adult speed reading courses are well known for results. We have helped teachers, doctors, attorneys, scientists, engineers stockbrokers and many others.

Comprehension is the key to any Readak course — for second graders, or for adults. We teach children how to find the main idea, how to spot the key facts, how to remember what they've read. We teach them how a paragraph is organized, and how the paragraphs fit together to make an essay, or a story. We teach vocabulary development.

Phonics is important for younger children. The diagnostic phonics tests tell us if your child needs phonics instruction. He will learn to identify the long vowels, the short vowels, the digraphs, the diphthongs. And he will learn to unlock new words, phonetically.

Study Skills

How often parents have told us, "My child reads well. He is bright. But he doesn't know how to study." Readak has now developed a special Study Skills course. This program makes scholars out of students. Your child will learn:

- How to prepare for study
- How to take notes
- How to take tests
- How to concentrate
- How to remember
- How to write essays
- How to use time
- How to write compositions

Few regular school programs offer any course in study skills. Throughout school, your child can only do his best work if he knows how to study. Often, low grades mean only poor study habits.

Your child is given a diagnostic reading test before enrollment. After he is tested, you have a conference with his teacher. You receive the test results in clear, plain talk—no holding back. If we feel we can help, your child is put in the proper class for complete attention to his individual needs. There is no charge for the testing. If we cannot help, or you decide not to enroll, the test is free. In order to help your child, we must know his present reading ability. And we will not accept any child without proper testing.

Advanced Methods

Readak reading courses do not duplicate the public school approach. There is no conflict. Readak teaches all the most advanced and efficient methods of reading improvement.

. . . we won't guarantee we can get her into college, but Readak can give her something just as important — outstanding reading ability and love of books.

Often, regular school instruction is not enough. Classes are large. Teachers are busy. Your child is studying many subjects, not just reading. There is not enough time to concentrate on an intensive reading program.

Readak has extremely small classes. Our teachers are highly-trained reading experts. We teach reading only—not math, and science, and P.E. Just reading. The program is very concentrated, and very effective.

You will be very pleased by the results. Ask your neighbor. Probably her child went to Readak last summer. Children develop a new feeling of confidence. We want every child to be enthusiastic about reading. We want every child to love to read books.

You may know quite a bit about Readak already. We began in Palo Alto in 1957. This year marks our tenth summer session. We are successful because we have done a good job in helping children read better. Now there are Readak schools in Boston, New York, Washington, D.C., Detroit, New Orleans, Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Vancouver, B.C., Puerto Rico, Mexico City, Mill Valley, San Jose, Palo Alto and San Diego. Our Director is Kirk Lawson, a Stanford graduate in English. He has spent many years in the study and practice of reading techniques.

The success of Readak depends upon our success in helping your child. We intend to keep on growing.

PLANNING IN MARIN

County Went Ahead Despite Depression

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON
(Second of four articles)

Learned seers, poring over charts of birth rates and population trends in 1935, predicted that the population of the United States had reached a plateau, and might even decline slightly in the next quarter-century.

Some felt this might be a good thing. The economy had been strained ever since the stock market crash of 1929, and even the federal government's spending on public works and relief programs of over a billion dollars a year ("Fantastic! It will bankrupt the country!" declared many economists) seemed to be doing little to improve matters.

MARIN CONFIDENT

There was confidence of growth for Marin County, though: the Golden Gate Bridge was a-building. Scarcity of money caused the county board of supervisors to sharply trim the budget for fiscal 1936, reducing the county tax rate from $1.77 to $1.15 per $100 assessed vaulation. But as 62 pupils received diplomas at the June graduation of the San Rafael Grammar School, there were confident predictions that classes would be much larger within a few years.

To prepare for the expected population influx, a staff of people drawn from relief rolls was at work under Hugh Pomeroy of San Mateo County on planning for Marin County parkland acquisitions and outlining zoning and building restrictions. The growth ahead was to be planned growth — no more ill-designed subdivisions, no more shacks, no more crowding.

MISSES DEADLINE

The project, financed by $4,018.50 from the State Emergency Relief Administration, had started in February and was to have been completed in four months. But as so often happens with such things, it did not make the deadline.

Then, in August, a bombshell fell. The federal government took over all work relief through its Works Progress Administration, leaving the states to handle only direct relief—the dole. The SERA was dissolved. An the Marin County planning project was still not finished.

Haskins Huntington, one of the people working under Pomeroy on the project, appeared before the county board of supervisors on Aug. 26 to ask that they apply for continuance of the job under WPA. The board voted unanimously to do so.

It soon developed, though, that the cost was to be much greater than the $4,018.50 the SERA had originally allocated. On Oct. 15, the supervisors authorized expenditure of $21,543.35 in county funds on the project, to be augmented by $19,613.35 from WPA.

Recommendation for the appropriation came to the board from Thomas T. Keat, chairman of the newly formed county planning committee.

On Nov. 12, Pomeroy presented his recommendations for parkland acquisitions. He urged that the county take options on lands in the Olema district, the west shore of Tomales Bay, and along Paper Mill Creek. He warned, "The county must not make the mistake of waiting until values are out of reach."

COMMISSION TASK

A month later, the board of supervisors adopted an ordinance directing the county planning commission — no longer merely "committee" — to "prepare a zoning or districting plan as part of the master plan for the erection, construction and alteration of buildings and improvements."

Pomeroy had about completed his chore, originally scheduled for four months but running nearly a year. With the county planning commission in existence and at work on proposed ordinances, what had started as an "emergency relief" project began to assume the air of permanence.

FIRST AIDE

To assure its continuity, the board of supervisors named the county's first planning technician of its own: Haskins Huntington, the assistant on Pomeroy's staff who had appeared before it in August to urge the project be continued with WPA funds.

Until 1941, he was to constitute the staff of the county planning department.

Mill Valley School Board Votes 4.4 Per Cent Raise

A teacher salary increase averaging 4.4 per cent was approved last night by the Mill Valley School District Board. The salary schedule also expanded to include a sixth step for teachers with a master's degree plus 30 units of graduate credit or a bachelor's degree plus 75 units.

The new salary range is from $6,360 to $13,320. The old five-step range was $6,090 to $12,180.

The board also approved salary hikes for three administrators and a 4.4 per cent increase across the board for classified employees.

Supt. James A. Collins was raised to $20,000 from his present $18,500, the amount the board spoke of before canceling a proposed closed meeting in March to discuss Collins' salary.

Asst. Supt. Leo Edson was raised to $18,200 from $17,661, and Glenn Skelton, who will become principal and director of the new middle school, will receive $18,000. As director of instruction and principal at Park School he had received $17,420. He became superintendent last July 1.

A new seven-step schedule for principals was approved, ranging from $11,520 to $17,172. The top salary, a new step, requires a doctorate or a bachelor's degree plus 90 units. The old range was $11,061 to $16,452.

Total cost of certificated salaries for 1968-69 was projected at $1,886,210, compared to $1,731,355 this year. The figure included everyone except Collins and Edson.

Cost of the classified employees' raise has not been totaled, but last year's classified salaries were $288,020.

The salary boost is approximately $18,000 higher than the total presented last month in a preliminary budget. The extra money will be taken from capitla outlay budget, school officials said.

The board also approved a plan of dental benefits for all employees which will cost the district approximatley $30,000 a year.

The Mill Valley School District Board also:

OUTDOOR EDUCATION — Heard a report from William Lovvorn on this summer's planned outdoor education program at Laurel Glen in Santa Cruz Mountains. Mill Valley will send approximately 380 sixth graders for one week apiece over a six week period.

NEW TEACHER — Hired Thomas Eggers to teach the educationally handicapped at a starting salary of $7,560.

RESIGNATION — Was told that Lovvorn, principal at Marin Terrace school, will resign effective next month to take a similar post in Santa Cruz County. Lovvorn's resignation has not yet been officially submitted.

Runaways Held On Narcotics

Two runaway boys, reportedly carrying a vial filled with a dangerous drug, were arrested as they walked along Calle del Mar in Stinson Beach Sunday night, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Deputy R. C. Russel stopped the boys — a 16-year-old from Novato and a 14-year-old from New Jersey — for being out past curfew at 11:45 p.m.

When he found the New Jersey boy with what he suspected to be a dangerous drug, he booked them both at juvenile hall on a narcotics charge and as runaways.

The Novato boy's father reported he had not seen his son since Wednesday.

Hiring Session

The Bolinas-Stinson School District Board has called a special closed meeting for 8 p.m. Thursday at Bolinas School to discuss hiring teachers for next school year.

Harbor Board Sets Special Meeting

The Bolinas Harbor District board will hold a special meeting at 8:15 a.m. Thursday to consider an amendment to its joint powers agreement with Marin County, and to ratify a contract with R. M. Towill Co. of San Francisco for a topographic survey of the lagoon.

The board will meet at the office of its planning consultant, Norman T. Gilroy, at 585 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley.

POT HARVEST COMES EARLY FOR NOVATO

The Novato police found that to be almost true yesterday.

Jack W. Schrock of the State Department of Agriculture found 10 marijuana plants growing near Eucalyptus Avenue north of the new Novato Creek bridge. He turned them into the Novato police about 1:30 p.m.

An hour later, Ronald Clayton Bradbury of the North Marin County Water District, found a plastic packet of marijuana on Highway 101 near the El Novato Motel at 7530 Redwood Highway. He also gave it to police.

Percy Offers $50,000 For Slayer Clues

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., today posted a $50,000 reward for information leading to the killer of his daughter, whose body was found in the Percy mansion 19 months ago.

Percy announced the reward at a hastily called news conference attended by Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois in the governor's conference room at the State of Illinois Building here.

Percy said the money would come from his own resources.

The announcement was the first consequential development in the sensational murder case in many months.

The body of Valerie Percy, 21, was found Sept. 18, 1966, in a second-floor bedroom in the Percy's residence on Lake Michigan in suburban Kenilworth.

Since then police have investigated thousands of leads and tips but none have panned out.

Percy said no reward had been offered heretofore because authorities feared the publicity would bring in unproductive leads that would detract the investigators.

Percy stood before reporters with Kerner and Ross V. Randolph, director of the Illinois Department of Public Safety. Randolph announced that jurisdiction in the case had been transferred from the village of Kenilworth to the Illinois State Police.

Since the investigation began, Randolph said, more than 1,194 leads had been checked.

Percy said the $50,000 would be deposited in the Harris Trust and Savings Bank in Chicago. He said anyone with information "which leads to the arrest and conviction of the killer or killers of Valerie Jeanne Percy" should contact Illinois State Police, 7188 Irving Park Road, Chicago.

Tiburon Sanitary $73,428 Budget In Under Review

Directors of the Tiburon Sanitary District last night reviewed a preliminary budget for $73,428, up from $70,094 last year.

The board felt the tax rate could be held at 52.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation again this year, according to Edward P. Ward, secretary.

Categories in the budget include salaries of $38,748, repair and maintenance to plant, $9,950 and $7,500 for utilities.

The budget will be discussed again at 7:30 p.m., June 3, at the treatment plant at Mar West Street and Paradise Drive, Ward said.

The board saw a film by the Chicago Pump Co., a division of FMC, showing a "completaire" packaged sewer treatment plant being considered by the district for installation at Paradise Cove. The plant was discussed by no action was taken, Ward reported.

Youth, 19, Faces Marijuana Count

Jeffery Listman, 19, of 516 Bret Hart Road, San Rafael, was certified to juvenile court from Marin Municipal Court yesterday to face a charge that he was in a place where marijuana was used April 22.

Listman was arrested with three other youths that day in a house at 23 Scenic Avenue, San Rafael.

Still facing the same charge in adult court are Robert Louis Arnett Jr., 19, of San Rafael; Paul Powers, 21, of San Quentin, and Frederic Cantua, 19, of Oakland.

Tam Trustees Favor $8.5 Million Budget

The Tamalpais High School District Board last night approved in principle a preliminary budget of $8.5 million for the 1968-69 year. (Another Tamalpais High School District story, page 19.)

Details of capital outlay and equipment replacement costs have not yet been compiled, but their totals are included in the $8.5 million figure, school district officials said.

The district has a current budget of $8,035,958, with an operation tax rate of $1.90 per $100 assessed property valuation, and a total rate of $2.22. Officials said the growth of the district assessment rolls will cover most of budget increase.

The board also voted 2-1 to $800 to the San Rafael architectural firm of Gromme and Priestley for work on a portable classroom project at Tamalpais High School.

The motion was by Trustee Bette C. Wallace. Dr. John C. Siemens, president, then temporarily turned the president's chair over to trustee Gloria W. Melbostad so he could second the motion. He and Mrs. Wallace then voted for the payment, and Mrs. Melbostad voted against it. Trustees Berton C. Jacobson and William B. Lewis were absent.

The issue was touchy because the district has been withholding fees to the architectural firm on grounds that it has been overpaid for its work.

After the vote, Mrs. Melbostad questioned validity of the action. She said she believed such fiscal matters require a majority vote by the entire board, rather than by just a quorum majority. The legal question will go to the county counsel, it was deicded.

The board took no action on another proposal to pay $1,806 to the same firm for a district building needs survey. A special audit of fees to Gromme and Priestley for other work on the proposed San Geronimo high school is being conducted.

The board last night also authorized establishment of a district opportunity school for special training for drop-out students, and authorized a three-cent override tax increase effective July 1 to pay for organization of the school.

Trustees said the school will be for all three district high schools, to serve an estimated 140 drop-out students, beginning in the fall of 1969.

Tamalpais High School District Board Also:

CONTRIBUTION — Donated $1,000 to the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council toward continuance of the teen-aged mothers center in Marin City for the remainder of this school year.

SUPPORT — Heard a statement of support by the Tamalpais District Teachers Association for Donald Kreps, Redwood High principal, for what it termed his professional conduct in the current hearing over re-employment of physical education teacher Elizabeth R. Blodgett.

NEWSPAPER — Allocated up to $3,000 next year for the county student newspaper, High Times, contingent on other districts also helping.

COMMITTEE — Appointed an 11-member steering committee for the district's Nov. 4 general election bond issue.

HIRED — Hired five teachers: Imants Abers, driver instruction teacher for the district next year; Eliene Bundy, English teacher, and Susan Dohrmann, French teacher, both at Drake High; Truman Whorton, industrial arts teacher at Redwood High; and Marcia DeZwarte, special education in visually handicapped, for the district. Salaries are to be determined.

OPEN CAMPUS — Heard Principal Kreps' report that Redwood High will have an open campus next year. Students will be free to leave school during open periods and at lunchtime. The board had no objection.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Valerie Gold, Drake High teacher, and Duane Bailey, Redwood physical education teacher.

Teachers Ask Insurance In Novato

The Novato Teachers' Association last night asked the Novato Unified School District Board for a $20-per-month insurance program to be paid entirely by the district.

This would include $4.75 dental insurance, $5 health insurance and $10.25 per month for other insurance such as disability and income protection, according to Edward Dolan, district information officer.

This would cost the district $174,000 for its 725 employees per year, Dolan said.

The board indicated that if it went into the program, it would give it to both the teachers and classified employees, he said. The board postponed any action on the request until budget discussions, according to Dolan.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

APPLICATIONS — Approved applications for $38,500 for a mentally retarded program and $9,400 for a speech therapist program, both from the federal government.

PORTABLE CLASSROOMS — Approved the use of one portable classroom at Loma Verde School and possibly one, if needed, at the Pacheco School for next school year.

TESTING — Received a report from Gilbert Guerin, pupil personnel director, that the testing showed that the Novato sixth grade averaged 102.6 I.Q. and the 10th grade 104.3 I.Q. The sixth grade averaged 57 points compared to an average of 58 points for similar schools. The 10th grade averaged 58 points compared to a similar average of 57 points.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Single Vaccine May Prevent Extensive Range Of Diseases

VAN DELLEN

Within the next decade, a one-shot vaccine cocktail may protect us against 10 or more diseases. The procedure may be an annual affair, but this is a small price to pay for immunity. It will protect us against smallpox, yellow fever, poliomyelitis, measles, mumps, German measles, chickenpox, and several viral diseases.

Last year a threat of smallpox stimulated interest in perfecting a potent vaccine using modern techniques. After all, the original was concocted by Edward Jenner in 1796. The outcome will be interesting because habits are difficult to change and vaccination customs are no exception.

An experimental vaccine tried at the University of Colorado School of Medicine has given good results. A combined measles-smallpox product has been tested and may soon be available.

The new mumps vaccine ought to be given to adolescents and adult men who have not had the disease. These individuals are more susceptible to complications involving the reproductive organs. One injection confers as much immunity as an attack of natural mumps. Like other viral vaccines, it should be used with caution on individuals who are sensitive to eggs, meat, chicken feathers, or neomycin. It should not be given during pregnancy.

AN ORAL POLIO vaccine has replaced Dr. Salk's product. The first measles vaccine made of inactivated viruses will be replaced by a preparation made from live, but weakened (attenuated), organisms. Physicians found that the inactivated vaccine caused unusual localized and systemic reactions when the recipient was exposed to natural measles or received the attenuated vaccine at a later date. Rash, fever, malaise and signs of toxicity ensued.

Work is progressing on respiratory virus vaccines. Every year investigators update the influenza vaccine. Protection against adenoviral infections is now available; the German measles vaccine will be, in the next few years.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

CURING CHILD OF BLINKING

Mrs. O. writes: Can a child be cured of blinking? This habit began two months ago.

REPLY

Tics of this nature are best treated by paying no attention to them. They usually begin when a child mimics a friend or relative or develops an eye infection that irritates the lids. Poor vision also may be responsible.

LINIMENTS OR MASSAGE?

A reader writes: Are liniments helpful because their ingredients penetrate the skin, or does the massage make a person feel better?

REPLY

It is the massage. Liniments impart a feeling of warmth to the skin, but how deeply they penetrate underlying tissues is a moot question.

VISITING HOUSE OF MUMPS

Mrs. V. writes: My neighbor's two children have mumps, and she claims I can visit with her and then go home without carrying the disease back to my youngsters. Please advise.

REPLY

She is right, assuming that you are immune to the disease. It would be unusual for mumps to be transmitted in this way.

BRONCHIECTASIS

C. S. writes: How can bronchiectasis be relieved?

REPLY

The treatment of dilated and infected bronchi is discussed in our leaflet on bronchiectasis. It may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Statement of Policy

Regarding Political Advertising

The Independent-Journal does not aggressively solicit or render copy writing service for political advertisements that are argumentative in content. Political advertisements are construed to be all assertions subject to public controversy, whether or not a public election is involved.

Any political advertisement that is not clearly the personal appeal of the elective candidate or candidates involved must show the name of the sponsoring group together with the name or names of one or more persons officiating for such group and their address.

Political advertisements must be submitted in complete and explicit form, ready for the printers, and clearly marked as to size and date of appearance. All political advertisements are payable in advance. Charges are figured at the regular rate.

Advertising deadlines are 4 p.m., two days preceding publication. As example: Tuesday advertisements must be in Friday at 4 p.m.; Monday advertisements must be in the preceding Friday morning. Any intervening holiday advances the deadline by a day.

If a proof is desired, advertisement must be submitted substantially in advance. Corrections, if any, must be ordered by 4 p.m., two working days preceding publication. Any changes from original copy will be charged for on basis of printing work involved.

On the last publication day before an election no political advertisement other than a simple statement of advocacy will be printed. As example: "Vote yes on proposition three," or "Elect John Jones," together with facts as to nature and time of election and, if desired, candidate's party affiliation or occupational identity.

Nearing a public election, no advertisement introducing a new controversial subject will be accepted to run later than the fourth publication day preceding the election. If any new statement or issue should be introduced on the fourth publication day preceding the election, attacking the opposing candidate or issue involved, the newspaper may, at its discretion, make allowance under this rule for the opposing side to answer.

Necessity for the newspaper's disinterested handling of political advertisements is readily apparent. These terms and conditions are adhered to in spirit of fairness to all.

STORER REBUFFED

Board Is Doubtful Of Seashore Link

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer's suggestion that when the Vietnam war is over, federal funds be sought to provide better access to Point Reyes Seashore got nowhere this morning before the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Access need not be limited to a roadway, said Storer. "We may be talking about a train to take people there. It may be something like the Skunk train in Mendocino County and operated at a profit."

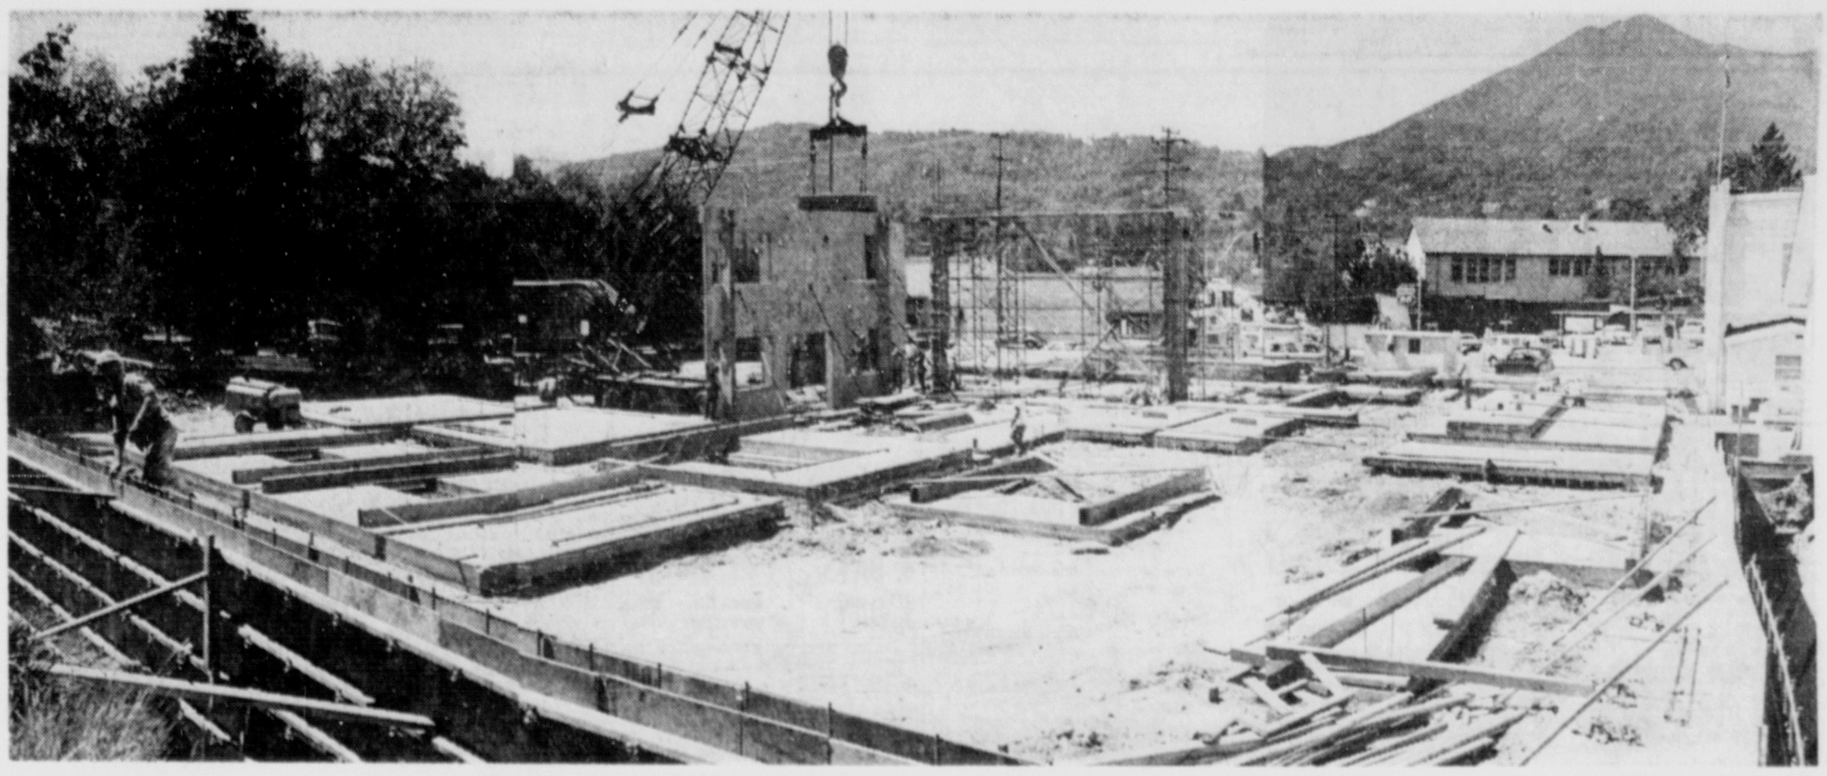
Supervisor Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen countered that any federal money available should first go to complete the acquisition of seashore land.

Supervisor John F. McInnis declared he does not see a "flood of money" coming from Washington even if the war were to end.

"The Korean War stopped and World War II stopped" said McInnis. "There was no flood of money to places like Marin."

McInnis said that Metropolitan areas such as San Francisco and the East Bay are demanding reconstruction. "They are going to take priority rating for any surplus funds . . . we're crying down a rainbarrel when we look to floods of money from Washington."

Getting no support, Storer withdrew his resolution calling for federal funds for access to the seashore.



THE BEGINNING OF A FIRE STATION

Against the scenic backdrop of Mount Tamalpais, workmen raise the first wall of the new $289,000 Kentfield Fire District station at College Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. The concrete walls are poured horizontally to the site and then lifted into position by crane when ready. By using three separate photographs, Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax has extended the view to cover an almost 180-degree angle; from one edge of the site to the other. The station is being constructed by Commerical Construction Co., of San Francisco and the architects are Bushnell, Jessup, Murphy and Van de Weghe of San Francisco. It is expected to be completed by late July, according to Fire Chief Kenneth Kamp.

Storer Says Opponent Quoting Wrong Man

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer charged today that his political opponent, Louis H. Baar, is circulating a brochure attributing to him remarks that another supervisor made concerning a proposed park through dump and fill operations in the Corte Madera tidelands.

Storer repeated today at the supervisors' meeting that he would not support any dump and fill operation for a park in Corte Madera against the wishes of the town.

On April 2, the supervisors and the county parks and recreation commission discussed the proposed park, and Supervisor Peter H. Behr said that if the supervisors are convinced a park is needed in the Corte Madera tidelands, then "I'd cram it down the teeth of Corte Madera."

After that meeting, Behr apologized for the remarks. Today, he said, "I don't think it is proper to attribute my intemperate remarks to Mr. Storer."

BURGLAR MUST THINK NEIGHBORHOOD'S NICE

On Friday night, Grace P. McVicar was awakened in her Stinson Beach home by the sound of a car leaving the house next door.

The following morning she discovered that the nieghboring home, owned by John F. Rusk of San Francisco, had been burgled. Coins totaling $9 were missing.

That night, Mrs. McVicar slep soundly, without interruption. She awoke to find that someone had found her key left in the front door. They opened the door and stole $15 from her purse, deputies said today.

Sausalito's Marincello Case Due Court Trial Tomorrow

A suit brought by the City of Sausalito against the County of Marin in March 1966 to stop development of Marincello is scheduled to come to trial tomorrow in Marin Superior Court.

The action asks that county rezoning for the planned community in Marin's headlands be nullified. It seeks a court order blocking further resolutions or ordinances permitting development of the legally entangled project.

Sausalito and four neighbors of Marincello — John P. and Constance L. Erickson and Herbert and Frances M. Perkins— charge that the county illegally rezoned the land from residential and agricultural to planned community.

They charge there was insufficient legal notice of a public hearing held by the board of supervisors on the Marincello question Jan. 19, 1966.

The suit claims that Marincello would cause intolerable and unsafe traffic jams on Highway 101 and burden Sausalito schools and public services.

The suit is to be heard tomorrow by Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court if his present jury trial ends today, as expected. If the jury trial continues until tomorrow, the trial is to begin Thursday.

The huge planned community above the Marin Headlands has been stalled for a year while the developers sought financing and is currently the subject of several lawsuits among the principals.

Court Case Boosts Sales Of Gadget

Telephone inquiries for the $9.95 developer have been way out in front of other calls to the Eileen Feather Figure Salon in Terra Linda starting yesterday.

Beginning the rise in interest was the three-day Alameda County Superior Court case which ended yesterday with Judge Spurgeon Avakian lifting a state ban on the "Mark Eden" device until the state can prove it doesn't do what it claims to do.

At the Terra Linda salon today, a manager identified only as Diane, said the number of inquiries from Marin women reached large proportions yesterday.

"The court story in the newspapers seemed to stimulate interest but until then, it wasn't such a big thing," she said.

Boy's Fireman's Dream Snagged

If it's true that every boy wants to be a fireman, then there is a boy in Sleepy Hollow today with the trappings of his dream.

He has a real fireman's hat and coat.

Unfortunately, sheriff's deputies said, he took it from the car of fireman John S. Williams Jr. of 301 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo.

Williams said his helmet and jacket were stolen from his car April 27, while it was parked in front of 32 Dutch Valley Lane, Sleepy Hollow.

Marin Hotel, Motel Tax Raised 1 Pct.

Marin County Board of Supervisors today voted unanimously to raise the transient hotel and motel tax from the present 4 per cent to 5 per cent.

Marin County Auditor Controller Michael Mitchell estimated that the lower transient room tax for next year would bring $26,000 to the county, and with the added 1 per cent, $32,000.

Ben A. Farlatti, president of the motel and hotel owners association, spoke in favor of the raise.

"I'm a great believer in the user tax," said Farlatti. "Tourists expect to pay 5 per cent and they're already paying it in 28 counties. Besides, it's a helluva lot easier to figure out 5 per cent than 4 per cent."

If the transient room tax is raised by 1 per cent, Farlatti said he hopes the present $30,000 contribution to the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and tourist bureau could be raised by 20 per cent.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said the policy is that the entire revenue from the transient room tax would go to the chamber of commerce and tourist bureau.

On a motion by Supervisor Peter H. Behr, supervisors unanimously raised the rate to 5 per cent.

Wider Span Approaches Are Opposed

Marin County's two directors of the Golden Gate Bridge District today objected to a proposal to spend an estimated $6 million widening San Francisco approaches to the bridges on the grounds that this would dissipate funds for a rapid transit bus system.

The directors are Thomas D. Hardcastle and George Ludy.

They made their statements at a meeting of the highway, roads and traffic committee of the bridge board. They were objecting to a proposal by committee Chairman Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco, who wanted to ask the state highway commission to match funds and widen the toll plaza and the Funston Avenue interchange.

Leonoudakis argued that the $6 million the bridge district intends to repay the Division of Highways for building the Waldo Tunnel some 15 years ago ought to be earmarked by the state for the construction projects on the San Francisco side.

He also wanted the bridge district to put up another $6 million for the job. Hardcastle countered that he doesn't think there is urgency for the work and that it would dissipate the bridge reserves which could otherwise be used to develop a fast bus system between Marin and San Francisco.

Ofifce Looted

Thieves stole $30 from a desk drawer at Donald A. Joslin's gravel company on the Point Reyes-Petaluma Road at Tocaloma April 29, according to a report filed by the sheriff's office today.

San Quentin Parolee Is Arrested

Willard Avery, San Quentin parolee who walked away from the prison's outside dormitory on April 29, was arrested this morning by San Francisco police for trespassing in the Haight-Ashbury district.

The 29-year-old Avery, booked under the name of Aaron Aries, was charged with trespassing and assault on a police officer. He was arrested by two officers from Park Street Station at 4:01 a.m. on Page Street.

San Quentin officials have placed a hold on Avery and will return him to the prison, this time inside the walls, as soon as he is released by San Francisco, Associate Warden James W. L. Parks said.

He will have to appear before the parole board for violating parole and Park said Avery's parole would "probably be revoked."

Avery had been returned to prison on March 11 for treatment at the narcotics clinic on a 90-day maximum sentence. Parole is suspended but not revoked during narcotics treatment, Park said.

Drake Parents Rap Truancy Discipline

An irate group of about 25 parents of Sir Francis Drake High School students who were disciplined for skipping school to attend an anti-draft rally told the Tamalpais High School District board last night the discipline was unwarranted. (See another Tamalpais High School District story, page 17.)

The group termed the suspension for different lengths of time from school of the students as "repressive action" by the school, and chose school principal Harold Allison and Francis E. Mulholland, dean of boys, and Ann Bell West, dean of girls, as special targets for its wrath.

Valmar A. Schaaf of 32 Crest Road, San Anselmo, read a statement signed by 11 parents and terming the suspensions excessive. The group asked the board to take action to expunge the suspensions, give the affected students the opportunity to make up school work and to establish a students-parents committee to study the scope of authority the schools have in matters of suspension and other discipline areas.

The board then directed Supt. Chester G. Carlisle to investigate the feasibility of such a committee appointment. Carlisle, in turn, asked Drake school administrators to take the matter up with the entire faculty at a regular faculty meeting tomorrow. Time of the meeting was not set.

The board also referred the question of the extent of students rights to the county-wide community relations council for study.

About 46 students missed class April 26 to attend a students' rally in San Rafael. State law requires that all absences except those for sickness, medical or dental appointments, be listed as unexcused, but how students are disciplined for unexcused absences is left up to the discretion of district principals, officials said.

Teacher's Hearing Continued

The attorney for Miss Elizabeth Blodgett, the 212-pound Redwood High School gym teacher, said that her hearing will continue at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Tamalpais High School District office in Larkspur.

A. Leonard Bjorklund, Miss Blodgett's lawyer, had planned to ask school officials to drop charges by Redwood Principal Donald Kreps that the teacher is too overweight to be rehired as a physical education teacher next year.

However, he emerged from a meeting with school officials yesterday, to announce that the hearing will go ahead as scheduled.

The hearing is being conducted by the state Office of Administrative Procedures at Miss Blodgett's request.

Miss Blodgett, meanwhile, remained in seclusion, having returned to her Marshall home Saturday after disappearing for two and a half days. Before leaving on Wednesday night she had left a note for Bjorklund saying that she could "no longer bear this constant strain."

Three Pulitzer Prizes Go To The Knight Newspapers

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the first time in the 52 year history of the Pulitzer Prizes for journalistic achievement, one newspaper organization won three awards the same year. The Knight Newspapers yesterday won prizes for editorial writing, local reporting and editorial cartooning.

A United Press International combat photographer in Vietnam, Toshio Sakai, won the Pulitzer Prize for feature photography, a new category this year. Sakai, 26, was cited for the picture "Dreams of Better Times," showing a weary GI asleep in the rain while a buddy keeps watch.

The awards to the Knight Newspaper group went to John S. Knight, 73, editorial chairman of the papers, for editorial writing; the staff of the Detroit Free Press for coverage of last summer's rioting in that city; and to Eugene Gray Payne of the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer for editorial cartooning.

Other Pulitzers in journalism were won by the Riverside (Calif.) Press-Enterprise and by Nathan K. (Nick) Kotz of the Des Moines (Iowa) Register, Harold James of the Christian Science Monitor, J. Anthony Lukas of the New York Times, Alfred Friendly of the Washington Post and Rocco Morabito of the Jacksonville Journal.

In the field of letters, the Pulitzer Prize for fiction went to William Styron for "The Confessions of Nat Turner," an account of a Negro slave uprising. George F. Kennan, former U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union and now a professor at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N.J., was cited for biography for his book, "Memoirs, 1925-50." It was Kennan's second Pulitzer.

No Pulitzer was given for drama, apparently reflecting the opinion of the Pulitzer board that no outstanding play was written during 1967. It was the fourth time in the last six years that no drama award had been given.

The awards were announced at Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism by University President Grayson Kirk. The Pulitzers, awarded by the trustees of Columbia on recommendation of the Pulitzer Prize Advisory Board, are for work completed or published in 1967. They carry a $1,000 prize.

Knight was cited for his work "both in 1967 and for many years previously," especially in his column in the Knight Newspapers, "The Editor's Notebook," in which he discusses timely issues. The Free Press staff was cited for "both the brilliance of its detailed spot news staff work and its swift and accurate investigation into the underlying causes" of the Detroit rioting. The Free Press has been shut by a strike for 174 days.

"The Riverside Press-Enterprise was cited for disinterested and meritorious public service for an expose of corruption in the courts in connection with the handling of estates and property of an Indian tribe and successful efforts to punish guilty parties.

Friendly of the Washington Post won the Pulitzer for international reporting for his coverage of the Middle East war last June.

Other Pulitzers in the field of letters went to Will and Ariel Durant for general nonfiction for "Rousseau and Revolution"; Bernard Bailyn for history for "The Ideological Origins of the American Revolution"; Ahthony Hecht for poetry for "The Hard Hours," and George Crumb for music for his orchestral suite "Echoes of Time and the River."

TV REVIEW

Looking For A Personal Type Critic

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Welcome to 1968. Now you can rent a critic.

The gentleman's name is J.C. Thomas, and he came to the attention of televiewers the other day on NBC's "Today" show.

PERSONAL CRITIC

His function was summed up briefly by host Hugh Downs: "Very simply, if for some reason you can't attend a cultural event or some kind but you'd like to know what it was all about, Mr. J.C. Thomas will go in your place and then he returns to give you a personal critique in your own home."

Well, after that, another member of the "Today" staff, Barbara Walter, asked Thomas what it cost for someone to rent his services as a critic.

"Twenty-five dollars," Mr. Thomas replied.

"Do you get many offers for this kind of work?" he was asked.

"Oh," he said, "I've had perhaps a couple of dozen phone calls, Barbara. And of those about seven or eight, maybe nine people have hired me so far."

"Oh no."

"What do you do in real life when you're not criticizing?"

"I'm a free lance writer and critic essentially," said Thomas, "and a photographer and musician and perhaps a few dozen other things; whatever is necessary to survive and do it creatively."

HIS DECISION

What made him decide to become a rent-a-critic?

"Well, I moved to New York in January to free lance essentially in the creative and the performing arts, primarily writing, photography and the other things I do, and I had to think of a way with all the millions of writers, some unemployed, some not, some talented and some not in this town, to think of a way to get my name across fast."

Thomas was asked whether he gives a written report or comes back and chats about what he has seen.

"Well, here's the way I generally do it," he said. "First of all, I will talk to the individual, because this is personalized communication in my book and it's aimed at an audience of one.

SLANTS VIEWS

"Therefore, I have to know what the audience of one wants to get out of the particular activity, what his or her likes and dislikes are, and so on, so I can, shall we say, slant the review toward their particular tastes without inhibiting myself, of cours,e but slanting it toward them so that they are going to get what they hired me for.

"Then I attend it, of course, take my notes. Then I write it up and I will deliver a verbal critique as well as a written one. I will give them a written one and then I will improvise on that. I will even sometimes, if I feel so inclined, act out a few parts or go through certain motions. Actually I do a performance; it's more than just a straight critique."

Go get 'em, J.C.

Mrs. Gilman Retires As Postmaster

Mrs. Veda Wells Gilman has retired as postmaster of Tomales after more than 10 years of service.

During her tenure, Mrs. Gilman moved the post office from the Tomales general store to new quarters on Shoreline Highway. When the Fallon Postoffice was closed, she assumed management of the contract station in the Fallon General Store in addition to the Tomales postmastership.

Mrs. Alice Ambrosini is serving as clerk in charge of the Tomales office until appointment of an acting postmaster.

Mrs. Gilman is the widow of LaSelle Gilman, newspaperman and novelist who has a former member of the Independent-Journal editorial staff and for some years prior to his death was news editor of the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat. Mrs. Gilman said she plans to remain in Tomales and "pursue many interests for which I have not had time as postmaster."

GOLDEN WEDDING — Catherine and Frank Healion of San Rafael look through the greeting cards received on their 50th wedding anniversary this week. Healion was in the real estate business in Marin for 25 years. (Independent-Journal photo)

Realignment Of Bon Air Held First

The realignment of Bon Air Road in front of Marin General Hospital has nothing to do with the Wolfe Grade extension, Supervisor Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen assured Kentfield residents yesterday.

Kettenhofen said he would ask his colleagues on the board to reconfirm the following principles approved when the Kentfield master plan was adopted:

1. Bon Air Road will be the primary road from the Larkspur bridge to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and will be developed to a four-lane road before any development will be considered for the Wolfe Grade extension.

2. Further, the supervisors reconfirm to residents in the area that no action will be taken on Wolfe Grade extension for at least five years.

Innocent Plea To Laundry Burglary

Ronald Lee Price, 21, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge that he burgled the Lafargue French Laundry at 1110 Third Street, San Rafael, April 23.

Price, who, police said, set off a burglar alarm in the building, was scheduled for a jury trial on the felony charge June 24.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Couple Spends Time Trotting The Globe

Former San Rafael real estate businessman Frank Healion and his wife, Catherine, are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary this week.

They spend most of their time now traveling around the globe and have a trip to Scandinavia planned for the summer months.

The couple was married May 5, 1918 at the Church of the Holy Redeemer in San Francisco. Best man was Edward I. Butler, who was Marin Superior Court judge for 31 years before his death in 1961.

Healion, 77, was born in Cazadero, Sonoma County, and came to Marin at the age of 2. His grandfather came to California in a wagon train and his father was among the pioneer ranchers of West Marin.

Healion spent most of his early life ranching around Point Reyes Station and Nicasio. Then he operated stores in the county.

In 1938, he entered real estate as a partner of George Kaenel and the two remained in business for many years. In 1955 Edward P. Morphy was added to the staff and the firm of Kaenel, Healion and Morphy operated from an office at 1833 Fourth Street. Healion retired in 1962.

He is a life member of the Marin Real Estate Board and a member of the San Rafael Elks and the Marin Rod and Gun Club among other organizations.

His wife, who was born in San Francisco, worked as an office clerk in that city before their marriage. They make their home at 176 Fairhills Drive, San Rafael.

Guilty Plea To Grand Theft In Welfare Chisel

Mrs. Joyce L. Price, 40, of Novato, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a grand theft charge that she made false claims for about $1,500 in welfare assistance under the aid to dependent children porgram.

She made the false claims in the period running from July 15, 1966, to April 30, 1967, Mrs. Price worked full time as a cafeteria helper during that period, but reported only half of her income.

A welfare worker, noticing that Mrs. Price's expenses exceeded her reported income, asked for the investigation which led to her indictment by the grand jury.

Judge Harold J. Haley referred her to the county probation office and continued her case until June 3 for sentencing.

Kettenhofen Asks Changes In Committee

The fact that Drake High School District is not represented on the Marin County Committee on School District Organization "appears very inequitable," Supervisor Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen declared yesterday.

In a letter to Dr. Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, Kettenhofen said he has been approached by several citizens on the "unfortunate situation."

He suggested the following changes in procedure:

1. All nominations for the county committee be submitted to the county superintendent at least 30 days before election.

2. The superintendent determine whether these nominees are agreeable to serving.

3. Notification of these nominees should be by letter to all school district offices and city councils in the area 20 days before election.

4. Election should be held at an open public meeting one month before the annual countywide trustee dinner meeting.

5. Failing a quorum, a second date should be publicly announced, coinciding with the trustee dinner. The location should be the most convenient school facility and the time should precede the dinner itself.

St. Anselm's School was opened in 1935 and Mathin Catholic in 1949.

A "star-studded gala" for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will be held at 8:30 p.m. June 1 in Civic Auditorium, San Francisco. Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Gatov of Kentfield, former U.S. treasurer, is a co-chairman of the event, which is only three days before the primary election.

Innocent Plea To Power Halt

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Dale F. Morrow, 27, a former college student from Colorado, pleaded innocent yesterday to a charge he knocked over a power transmission tower with a bulldozer.

Municipal Judge Roy Seagraves set May 10 for preliminary hearing. Morrow faces a prison sentence of from one to five years, if convicted of the felony charge.

Dancer's Image Drugged Before The 'Derby'

Winnings Given To Forward Pass

He will be disqualified, placed last, and all winnings turned over to Calumet Farm, owner of the second-place horse, Forward Pass.

The track said a chemist for the state racing commission reported that an analysis of the urine sample taken from Dancer's Image "contained phenylbutazone and or a derivative thereof." Phenylbutazone is a pain killer and stimulant, track said.

The track said a thorough investigation is being made of the incident, but declined to elaborate.

Dancer's Image, owned by Boston auto dealer Peter Fuller, came from last place Saturday to edge out Forward Pass in the 94th running of the Derby. Francie's Hat was third.

The track said that under Rule 14.06 of the Kentucky racing regulations, "When a sample indicates the presence of such medication, such horse shall not participate in the purse distribution." Under the rules of racing, the wagering on the race is not affected.

It is customary to take a urine sample from the winner after the Derby. A sample is also made of another horse chosen by lot. The second horse tested Saturday was Kentucky Sherry.

This is the first time in the history of the Derby that any horse has ever been disqualified.

Bob Ussery, who rode Dancer's Image in the race and became the first jockey in 66 years to win Derbies in successive years, took the day off from his chores at Aqueduct Race Track in New York and could not be reached immediately for comment.

Churchill Downs President Wathen Knebelkamp said, "The Derby is treated like any other race.

He said that Churchill Downs will recognize Forward Pass as the winner of last Saturday's race, that Francie's Hat will be placed second and T.V. Commercial third.

Dan Gurney To Remain 'Conventional'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Dan Gurney says he prefers to stay with the conventional piston-engine cars rather than switch to the revolutionary turbines.

"This wouldn't be much of a race if everything out there was a turbine," Gurney said yesterday during practice for the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

"You may see that day" when turbines fill the field for the Memorial Day race, he said, "but I'd like to be able to say I was one of the last ones to make the switch."

"There's something about a piston-engine car—the noise, the feel," Gurney said. "Sure, I've thought about driving a turbine, like the old argument goes, this is supposed to be a proving ground for automobiles."

Gurney's car has a 302-cubic-inch engine with 50 per cent stock block parts, or those which can be bought in a showroom car.

Out for the first time were drivers Bruce Walkup, Downey, Calif.; Wally Dallenbach, East Brunswick, N.J., and Bud Tinglestad, Hawthorne, Calif., all in rear-engine turbocharged Offenhausers.

A's Continue Hot Streak

He sent five of them to the mound last night, and they combined to stop the Minnesota Twins 2-1 with a seven-hitter.

NO BUNTING

"I thought they (the Twins) might start bunting on Jim and there was no sense getting him hurt any more, Kennedy said.

Nash earned his first victory of the season in the game. Kennedy expects he'll be able to take his regular pitching turn against the Chicago White Sox later in the week.

QUICK CHANGE

The A's, who now have won four in a row to move into a tie for third plac in the American League, hit just often enough to win.

LONGEST

"That might be the longest I have hit in the majors, but I hit one in Yankee Stadium earlier in the season that felt better," Jackson said. Yesterday's homer, which cleared the centerfield fence, sailed some 420 feet.

Jackson doesn't consider himself a home run hitter. "When a pitcher throws as hard as (Dean) Chance does, anyone can hit the ball a long way," he said.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY WILLIE

It's Still A Losing Day

HOUSTON (AP)—Center fielder Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants received a 569-pound birthday cake yesterday one pound for each of his career home runs.

The occasion was Mays' 37th birthday and Roy Hofheinz, president of the Houston Astros, also presented the National League veteran two gallons of champagne.

Since Mays quaffs nothing stronger than a cold soft drink, he gave the spirits to his teammates. Mays did nibble at the eight-foot square cake, made with 3,800 eggs and a lot of patience.

That was the best thing that happened to Mays and the Giants all evening. The cellar-dwelling Astros, paced by Rusty Staub, pounded San Francisco 10-2 in posting their season high for runs in one baseball game.

Denny Lemaster, who shut out St. Louis in his last opener, slowed the Giants on seven hits, limiting them to five in the first seven innings. He now has a 3-3 won-lost record.

Staub batted safely all four times at the plate, raising his average to .341. Last season he was the fifth best hitter in the National League at .333.

Houston's red-haired first baseman got to the Giants starter Gaylord Perry, 2-2, early. Staub doubled in two runs in the first frame and singled in another in the second when Houston scored four times.

Staub singled in another run in the sixth, and in the eighth he drove in two more with a single.

Juan Marichal, 4-1, will pitch for the Giants tonight as San Francisco faces Houston in the second game of a four-game series. Don Wilson, 2-2, will start for the Astros.

Warriors Not Kidding About Turner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors weren't kidding when they spoke highly of rookie Bill Turner.

They kept the 6-7 rookie from Akron on their protected list during yesterday's NBA expansion draft and let Fred Hetzel, a 6-8 veteran who started most of the season, go in his place.

The Warriors also lost forward Dave Lattin, their No. 1 draft pick a year ago, and guard Bobby Warlick, veteran from Pepperdine. Lattin went to Phoenix and the other two to Milwaukee.

Each team got to protect seven players and the Warriors froze Nate Thurmond, Rudy LaRusso, Clyde Lee, Jimmy King, Jeff Mullins, Al Attles and Turner.

They also kept Joe Ellis and Bob Lewis.

A BIG DAY FOR YOUNG RAY LEACH

Leach, a senior, shot a 34-32—66, five-under par at Los Altos Country Club for low gross honors in the California Golf Writer's Association tournament.

He also won low net, the one-handicapper carding a 65.

Then later in the day, Leach received another honor. He was voted junior golfer of the year by the golf writers.

JIM SHORTS . . .

An accomplished water skier, Miss Bernard is staying at the Jaap Suyderhoud home in San Anselmo and practicing daily with young Mike Suyderhoud, world men's water ski champ, at Mira Monte Marina north of Novato.

WAR VETERAN — His many Marin friends will be happy to learn that former Redwood High School football star Dennis Schunk is making a strong comeback from wounds suffered in Vietnam March 31.

Suffered Shrapnel Wounds

A petty officer second class with the Navy Seabees, Schunk suffered shrapnel wounds in the hip and has been hospitalized in Guam and Oakland. His condition is said to be good.

Now 22, Schunk was an all-star Redwood gridder in 1960-61.

PLAY BALL —Okay, you guys, no more bum jokes about the hapless Mets. A new semi-pro baseball team known as the Marin Mets has been formed for a summer schedule. Barry L. Dandreano of Hamilton Air Force Base is one of the organizers. I hope they play ball better than their New York namesakes.

Tour On Tap To Astrodome

TOUR — Baseball tours are getting to be THE thing. San Rafael's GTS Travel Bureau, which sponsored a Giants' Booster Club junket to spring training in Phoenix, now has a trip to the Houston Astrodome a-brewin'. The group will watch the Giants against the Astros and then stop off at San Antonio on the way home to take in the Hemisfair. It's scheduled July 26-27-28.

FORE, HIKE — Former Tam star Matt Hazeltine of the 49ers and all-time grid great Ernie Nevers of Tiburon are sharpening up their golf games these days. They're among the crowd of sports celebs who've been invited to the seventh annual Harrah's Invitational Golf Tournament June 10-13 at three Lake Tahoe courses.

Among other well-known invitees are Rick Barry, John Brodie, Don Meredith, Elroy Hirsch, Eddie LeBaron, Joe DiMaggio and Lamar Hunt.

Clay Loses Another Round

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Former world heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay has lost another round in his legal fight to avoid a prison sentence imposed for refusing induction into the Armed Forces.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here yesterday upheld Clay's conviction and five-year prison term, rejecting his claims to be a conscientious objector because of being a Black Muslim minister.

Clay, who prefers his Muslim name of Muhammad Ali, was convicted on criminal charges by a Federal Court jury in Houston, Tex., last June 20. The judge gave him the maximum sentence—five years behind bars and a $10,000 fine.

"Being entirely satisfied that he has been accorded due process of law and without discrimination," we affirm this conviction," wrote Circuit Judge Robert A. Ainsworth Jr. of New Orleans.

Lawyers for Clay, who is free on $5,000 bond, have promised a fight to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Clay's battle with the Federal Courts began April 28, 1967, at the Houston Induction Center, where, in a highly publicized move, he refused to take the traditional one step forward which signifies entry into the military.

The influential U.S. boxing circles stripped Clay of his title when he defied the draft, but some countries of the world continue to recognize him as champion.

Last month the World Boxing Association completed an eight-man elimination tournament won by Jimmy Ellis, one of Clay's former sparring partners. However, another boxer, Joe Frazier, is recognized as the titleholder in five states.

In its opinion the court noted that Clay "claims to be a minister of the lost found nation of Islam (Black Muslims)" and maintains he was due a ministerial exemption from the draft.

Tracing Clay's activities back several years, the judges decided, "his vocation is clearly that of a professional boxer."

One-Man Campaign To Kick Out Mikan

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — How far will dissident New Jersey owner Arthur Brown carry his virtual one-man campaign to bring about the removal of George Mikan as commissioner of the American Basketball Association?

That appeared to be the prime question as ABA trustees and owners headed into the second day of their annual meeting today.

Brown, it was learned, brought his feud with Mikan to a head at yesterday's session after losing an attempt to make ironclad a league regulation that no new franchise may be placed within 100 miles of an established franchise.

The ABA has been talking of placing a 12th franchise in New York City and Mikan has said in the past he feels the league should have a team there. Brown's Americans just switched from Teaneck to Newark, N.J.

Failing to get even one owner to support his proposal that no team could be placed in New York, Brown and his attorney then informed the meeting that a suit has been filed and that Brown wants Mikan out as commissioner.

Neither Mikan nor Brown would comment publicly following the meeting, but three other owners as well as league officials confirmed what had taken place in the meeting.

What triggered Brown's campaign to oust Mikan was the commissioner's ruling a month ago forcing New Jersey to forfeit its playoff game to Kentucky to decide fourth place in the Eastern Division.

Brown issued a verbal blast at Mikan at that time, threatening a lawsuit. It was not learned where the suit Brown and his attorney disclosed was filed or what it was about. However, one league official said it is not believed to call specifically for Mikan's removal, but to deal more with league regulations and adherence to them.

On the matter of the 12th franchise, general discussion took place, a spokesman said, but Mikan told the officials that nothing serious was afoot at the moment.

The only issue brought to a vote was a proposal to limit travel squads to 10 players. This passed by a unanimous vote. Teams still may have 12-man squads, but two players must be left home on road trips. Most coaches viewed this as a move by owners to curtail travel expenses.

Sausalito Salmon Fishing Boats Report Some Very Good Angling

STEVENS

There was a happy note in the news from Bette Urbais of the Sausalito Boat and Tackle Spot in Sausalito.

"I wanted to get this good news to you, Ralph, before it cools off," she said, and proceeded to enumerate the reasons. Seems the boats out of the Urbais spot did very well, with an average of 2-3 salmon per rod. The boat, Chief, for example came into port with 21 salmon for 9 anglers.

The New Marrimac had 23 salmon to 12 pounds. The Blue Fin finished the day with a good score. In fact, all boats that fished off the Farallones made the grade.

I ASKED BETTE about the rockfishing boat Blue Horizon. "Any good?" I asked. "Yes, Ralph, very good," she said, "25 limits of assorted rockfish were taken, with some really big Reds and Blues, particularly for the much sought after Bocaccios. Also eight nice lings were boated."

All rockfishing addicts will be happy to learn that the big Blue Horizon boat will go after rockfish on Saturdays as well as Thursdays — it will try for salmon on all other days.

The action in the local bays, San Francisco and San Pablo from the Brothers to the Carquinez Bridge, along with the Napa River, the Carquinez Strait and the middle and upper Suisun Bay will come alive very soon. Lots of fine fat flounders in the San Pablo for those epicures who dote on the taste of properly prepared flounder fillets.

HERE'S A MESSAGE to the fly-rod anglers who would like to fish for and land a mess of Shad. Don Zunino informed me that a friend of his landed 50 of the handsome shad while fishing Sanghai Bend about four miles above Yuba City.

Zunino, who operates the Lincoln Bait Shop in San Rafael, can be depended upon to report only the facts.

NOTE: As salmon are apparently schooling outside, it is time to offer my readers mimeographed lists of 30 different methods of preparing salmon for the table, including a very simple but extremely good method of home-canning salmon. BALTIMORE (AP) — Outfielder Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles, recovering from an attack of mumps, worked out prior to last night's game against the Detroit Tigers.

The Baltimore slugger, out of action since April 20, was given permission to take batting prace and do some running. He will undergo another examination tomorrow by Dr. Leonard Wallenstein, the club physician.

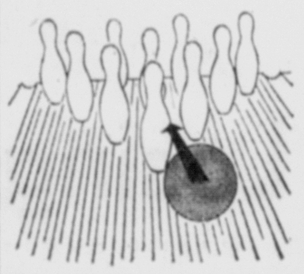
BOWLING TIPS

MARION LADEWIG



The lady tells me how embarrassing it is to leave the 5-pin so often, standing out there in the middle, all along. I asked her where she starts her approach when she's going for the No. 5.

"Oh, I throw at nearly all my spares from the same place I threw my first ball," she replied.

No wonder she misses the No. 5. This pin is nearly 20 inches farther away than the headpin. If you throw a hook, move at least one board to the left before bowling, but again at the same spot. This will allow your ball more hooking space and ive it a chance to bring down the No. 5.

Gibson Wins 11-Inning Duel

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitcher Bob Gibson had a no-hitter in 10 of the 11 innings he pitched. Tom Seaver was equally impressive. But the beady eyes of Orlando Cepeda were the most impressive of all.

New York's phenomenal right-hander and Gibson, the Cardinals' overpowering righty, were locked in a rigid pitching duel for 10 innings before Lou Brock and Cepeda ended it in the 11th and gave St. Louis a 2-1 victory over the Mets last night.

Gibson gave up three hits and one run in the fourth inning. That was all he gave up.

Seaver made 120 pitches and give up six hits, but that didn't dull his performance. The only run he gave up until the 11th was an unearned one in the second.

"I was frustrated after the game, but not during it," Seaver said. "If you let down mentally, even for one inning, they can kill you. A pitcher has to maintain his composure and retain control of the game. He cannot let things like that bother him."

The thing Seaver couldn't let bother him was the run the Mets might have scored in the fourth and didn't. Rookie Ken Boswell tried to score on a fly ball and was tagged out when he missed the plate.

Catcher Tim McCarver had gone up the line to take the throw but missed the tag on Boswell. That's where Cepeda's eyes came into play.

"I didn't know that he hadn't touched the plate," McCarver admitted. "I turned around and Orlando was yelling 'tag him, tag him' at me, so I did. I knew when the throw was coming in that we didn't have a chance at him."

In other National League games Monday night, Cincinnati bombed Philadelphia 10-1, Pittsburgh edged Atlanta 2-1 and Houston whipped San Francisco 10-2.

John Bench broke out of a hitting slump with a homer, a single and a double in the Phillies' lopsided triumph. George Culver went the distance for Philadelphia despite giving up 10 hits. Pete Rose homered and extended his hitting streak for the Reds to 21 games.

Donn Clendenon's two-run homer in the fourth inning, his fourth of the season, gave Pittsburgh the slim margin it needed to beat the Braves. Jim Bunning allowed Atlanta just four hits, but had to leave in the eighth with a twisted ankle. The injury was not believed to be serious.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Oriole Hurls One-Hitter

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dave Leonhard has joined Baltimore's growing trend toward inactivating relief pitchers, although less strikingly than Sam McDowell's method of putting hitters out of business.

The 26-year-old rookie right-hander kept the Orioles' bullpen in moth balls for the sixth straight game by cutting down Detroit on one hit last night as Baltimore beat the Tigers 4-0 for its eighth straight triumph.

"Those starters are getting serious," said reliever Moe Drabowsky after Leonhard gave up only Jim Northrup's two-out seventh inning single for the Orioles' six consecutive complete game. "We'll have to have an intrasquad game Thursday for the relievers."

New York Yankee hitters — except for Mickey Mantle — also took an enforced rest as McDowell struck out 14 of them en route to setting a strike out record and pitching Cleveland to a 3-2 victory.

The strike outs, along with 16 in Sudden Sam's last outing, broke Bob Feller's American League mark of 28 for consecutive games, and came within one of Sandy Koufax' major league mark.

McDowell, pitching the Indians to their fifth straight victory, did give up seven hits, but only one did any damage — Mantle's 522nd career homer with a man on in the first inning, moving him into fourth place on the all-time list ahead of Ted Williams. Only Babe Ruth, Willie Mays and Jimmy Foxx are ahead of him.

Leonhard and McDowell thus overshadowed Tommy John's three-hitter that pulled the Chicago White Sox by the California Angels 5-1.

In the only other American League game, the Oakland A's needed five pitchers to subdue Minnesota 2-1 for their fourth victory in a row.

Leonhard, trying to match teammate Tom Phoebus's no-hitter April 27 that started the Baltimore spree, had some troubles, walking seven and hitting two. But the Tigers helped out by having four runners thrown out on the bases. He is now 2-0 after hurling a five-hitter earlier in the streak.

The shutout was the third in 10 games for the Orioles and lowered the staff's earned run average to 1.40 during that time. And on the bulletin board in the locker room was posted a "bullpen vacation schedule."

Dave May singled twice for two runs and Dave Johnson scored once and drove in another run off loser Joe Sparma to raise the Orioles' league lad over the Tigers to 2½ games.

Batters Must Study Opposing Pitchers

OAKLAND — A catcher must be schizoid. On the one hand he must pull fervently for the success of his pitcher and try to give his pitcher every advantage in the book. But the other club's pitcher deserves no quarter.

Phil Roof, presently disabled Oakland Athletic backstop, is no different. With anguished tones — and not solely from his strained shoulder injury — Phil discussed the current debate over pitching advantages the other day.

There have been sudden suggestions that the mound be lowered, or moved back, or perhaps hidden in a BART tunnel. Batters are bleating over the lack of lusty averages. Why?

"I'm no authority," says Phil. "But the pitcher certainly has had an advantage the last few years. He's physically stronger. More meal money, better food, vitamins. That sort of thing."

He admits, however, that hitters, too, are getting the same chow, the same body-building capsules.

"Yes," he agrees. "But batters make more mistakes. They just don't study pitchers closely enough."

IF THE BATTER did take needed study time, it's quite likely he'd be to busy to play.

"Look. I'm up there with a 2 and 2 count against, let's say, Sam McDowell," says Phil. "Now I can't remember what kind of pitch McDowell threw me the last time he had a 2 and 2 count on me in a similar situation. I just don't keep a close enough record on all these things. And maybe most batters are like me. They lack confidence to know what the pitchers are gonna throw."

A pitcher obviously has more study time. He can look ahead three or four days to a game against a particular club. He can, in effect, memorize the strengths and weaknesses of the guy he'll face a few days hence. And the pitching coach has kept a "book" on his last performance against that club.

"THAT'S THE way it is," says Phil. "Shaving the mound won't help the batter. Maybe moving it back might be okay. But whatever happens, until they outlaw the curve ball I'll have trouble hitting."

Roof doesn't have trouble catching, though. Ex-A's (and Giant) skipper Alvin Dark has been very high on the 27-year-old Kentucky receiver. Phil's development as Oakland's top catcher has paralleled the emergence of the A's fine young pitching staff.

HE AGREES WITH nearly every baseball buff that the A's have a brilliant bunch of starters. "If we could only average three or three and a half runs a game for those guys," says Phil, "we could win the pennant. We're certainly capable of hitting."

Roof, who gets off the disabled list on May 12, has no complaints — save one — about handling the starting A's quintet of Jim Hunter, Blue Moon Odom, Lew Krause, Chuck Dobson and Jim Nash.

THEY'RE ALL "elementary" pitchers. That is, ptiching coach Bill Posedel "doesn't believe in teaching them the fancy stuff. And he thinks they're too young to risk arm injury by throwing the slider. This has made me a better student of the game knowing I have to rely on catching only the fast ball, curve and change."

Oh, there are exceptions. Krause will throw the occasional slider. And Odom is a sinker buff. "Trouble is," says Phil, "Blue Moon will 'cut' the sinker on me. It'll sail and I'll have trouble catching it. Maybe he doesn't know where it's going sometimes. I've talked to him about it for three years now. I guess it's one of those things."

IN CLEVELAND one night last week, Odom was in a tie game with Indians on first and third in the eighth. A pitch got away from reserve catcher Rene Lachemann. Boom — the winning run scored.

And the blame. Any wonder catchers have a legal license to brood?

Soccermen Slapped With Fines

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fines against two Dallas and one Oakland soccer players were announced yesterday by president Ken Macker of the western conference of the North American Soccer League.

John Stewart, 20-year-old Liverpool fullback for the Dallas Tornadoes, was fined $100 and suspended for two games for grabbing referee Henry Landauer of San Rafael in the May 1 game at Kansas City which Dallas lost 6-1. Stewart will miss games at Chicago on May 17 and at Baltimore May 18.

Chris Bachofner, 30-year-old Dutch player for Dallas, was fined $75 and suspended for one game for kicking a San Diego opponent April 27 in a game Dallas lost 4-2.

Oakland's Edgar Marin was fined $75 and suspended one game which he already has sat out. The Costa Rican was involved in kicking an Atlanta player in an Oakland game on May 1 which Atlanta won 1-0.

Tar Trackmen 4th In League

The Tars, competing without dash and high jump ace Honor Jackson, still dominated the distance races. Steve Carroll taking the mile and in 4:24.9 and Mark Byers taking the two-ile in 9:59.2.

Mitchell Howard of Marin was third in the 120 high hurdles, Jeff Hicks was third in the pole vault and George Stewart third in the 880. Fourth places went to Stewart, two-mile, and John Rowe, shot put; fifths to Tom Pattalochi, high jump. Steve Carroll, two-mile, and Dick Honey, 100; and sixth to Ragnar Thanning, two-mile.

Cal Among Favorites In Relays

PALO ALTO (AP) — The University of California and San Jose State are expected to be the strong contenders for the team title this weekend at the West Coast Relays at Fresno.

Odds on both track teams went up yesterday at the Northern California Track Writers Association meeting when it was announced USC will abstain from the relay events and enter only a skeleton crew in others.

UC track coach Sam Bell said USC may be "a little gunshy" because of the AAU conference meet May 17-18. "They got taken last year at Oregon when it looked like they might have won it. This year they're not taking any chances."

Bell said he had discussed prospects with Cornelius "Dutch" Warmerdam, director of the relays. "Dutch said he felt the meet would be the best relays ever," Bell reported. He said Warmerdam viewed Brigham Young and New Mexico as team contenders along with San Jose and Cal.

Bell said one of the best individual contests should be between Lee Evans of San Jose State and Larry James of Villanova in the mile relay.

He said James ran a 43.9 anchor leg—the fastest on record—for Villanova in the Penn Relays, and Evans has a 44.2 anchor leg to his credit.

Bell said he hopes Cal can do as well at Fresno as it did last year, when it took second. "I really think we can run a fine two-mile relay....and a fine mile relay also," he said.

Payton Jordan, Stanford track coach whose team lost 100-45 to Cal last Saturday, did not attend the meeting.

WINNING BRIDGE

If You Like Challenging Hands Add Kelsey To Your Bookshelf

If you're in favor of simple bridge hands for simple minds, stay away from H. W. Kelsey, whose "Killing Defense" I recommended a year ago. If you like challenging hands, add his "Advanced Play at Bridge" to your bookshelf.

UNKNOWN ACTION

In today's hand, which appears early in the new Kelsey book, you are shown only the North-South hands. It is up to your imagination to supply the East-West cards, but it isn't unlikely that West has 6-6 in the red suits to account for his energetic vulnerable bidding.

A count of winners shows that you can easily take seven clubs, two hearts and one spade. Where will you go for your 11th trick? Since you cannot expect to get a diamond trick, you must obviously try to set up dummy's spades.

The danger is that East will return a diamond if you let him win a spade trick. The defenders will get one spade and two diamonds, defeating the contract.

There, ladies and gentlemen, you have the problem. See if you can find a solution before you read on.

RADICAL SUGGESTION

Kelsey suggests that you refuse the first heart trick! West's best play is to shift to a spade. Step up with the ace of spades and cash the ace and king of hearts to get rid of your remaining spades. This was, of course, your reason for refusing the first heart trick.

Ruff a spade, lead a trump to dummy's eight, ruff another spade, lead a trump to dummy's jack and ruff another spade. Now dummy's last spade is good, and you can lead a trump to dummy's king and discard a diamond on the good spade.

DAILY QUESTION

♥ A K 4
♦ 7 6
♣ K J 8.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

Avoid an opening bid of 1 no trump when you have a fairly strong five-card major suit, particularly when you also have a dangerous weakness in one of the other suits.

Bells Ring Out In Daily Concert

VICTORIA, B.C. (UPI)—The people of British Columbia are hearing bells these days through a gift from Netherland settlers in the Canadian province.

The 88-foot Carillon Tower containing 39 bells, dedicated last May when Queen Juliana of the Netherlands placed the cornerstone while on a visit, plays a daily concert in Victoria. The bells were cast in Holland and vary in weight from 20 pounds to 1,920 pounds, spanning more than four octaves.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, May 7, the 128th day of 1968 with 238 to follow.

The moon is between the first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Saturn and Venus. The evening star is Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1915 the British liner "Lusitania" was sunk off Ireland by a German U-Boat. The vessel sank in 22 minutes with the loss of almost 1,200 passengers, including 124 Americans.

In 1945, Germany surrendered at Rheims, France.

In 1964 an airliner crashed 40 miles east of San Francisco, killing all 44 persons aboard. The FBI indicated that the pilot had been shot.

A thought for the day — Scottish historian Thomas Carlyle said, "No man who has once heartily and wholly laughed can be irreclaimably bad."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Build Retirement Fund With Growth Selections

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Lately I've been buying utility stocks for their high yield: Detroit Edison, Ohio Edison, Philadelphia Electric, and Duquesne Light. I also own Consumers Power, as I work for this company. I'm considering American Tobacco and Yountstown Sheet & Tube. I hope to take early retirement in 11 years. What are your thought on the foregoing? — J.R.

A. I think you hold some excellent electric utilities, two of which — Duquesne and Ohio Edison — may be participants in a new Midwestern eight-member holding company recently proposed. If the companies involved reach an agreement and gain the approval of regulatory agencies, it is expected that revenues would top those of other U. S. power systems.

Since your retirement is set for 1979, I believe you should now change your objective from high yield to strong growth. I strongly urge you to begin a program of long-term investment to enhance your capital and protect yourself against inflation.

Your current holdings and proposed purchases show an average price spread of 9½ points during 1967 and 1968 to date. For the same period a similar number of growth stocks recommended in my column, including American Hospital Supply, plough, Del Monte, EG&G, and Marshall Field, showed an average price spread of 39 points.

You might make a start by dividing your present reserves between Georgia-Pacific and R. H. Macy, both of which offer a promising outlook for continued growth.

Q. Please identify the 20 or more U. S. Treasury issues acceptable at par for payment of federal estate taxes. — O.H., D.O.

A. Regretfully lack of space prohibits my doing so, but I am glad to name the five currently quoted at the most favorable discount — below 80 at this time of writing. They are: 3s 1995; 3¼s 1978-83 and 1985; 3½s 1990 and 1998. The rest of the list sell higher because they mature sooner and some coupons are higher.

Lesson Of Columbia: Disaster In Hesitation

There would seem to be one obvious lesson in what has happened at Columbia University: a problem is neither eased nor simplified by procrastination.

The same lesson could have been learned on other campuses much earlier: at University of California in Berkeley several years ago, at San Francisco State College last fall, even at College of Marin.

It seems, however, to be a hard lesson to learn.

WHEN DISSIDENT STUDENTS (and non-students) invaded Columbia's buildings, took over the offices of President Grayson Kirk and other officials, and barricaded themselves inside, the men who ostensibly run the university hesitated to act.

Like Clark Kerr of U.C., like John Summerskill at San Francisco State, they waited in hope the revolt would wear itself out. They feared to call in police lest broken heads result.

After three days of waiting, however, the Columbia officials saw it was necessary to do what they had hoped they could avoid: call the police. Naturally, removal of hundreds of recalcitrants from the university buildings produced a scene of violence; it could not be otherwise.

Then, the students rioted and closed the school.

As this is written, classes at Columbia have been closed indefinitely while a faculty committee seeks to work out concessions that will satisfy the revolutionists.

THE ODDS ARE VERY HEAVY that no concession will satisfy them. When authority once bows to violence, authority is lost.

Then, like the governments of Europe that trembled before the demands of Adolf Hitler, those once in power must yield again, and yet again. The end is takeover by violence.

DESPITE ALL THE EFFORTS that have gone into attempts to correct wrongs at University of California since Mario Savio led the "Free Speech Movement" in revolt nearly four years ago, the campus today is more tense, the educational atmosphere less happy than before student mobs invaded Sproul Hall.

Despite the resignation of Summerskill, a spate of investigations and an assortment of promises mixed with strong words, the situation at San Francisco State is such that last week a dissatisfied teacher could force a dean to sign his resignation by invading the dean's office with a crowd of high school students who didn't even know what is was all about.

The outlook must be similar for Columbia. President Kirk, by failing to act promptly against lawlessness, lost the initiative. By appointing a committee to seek solutions to the student demands, he abrogated authority. The pattern becoming all too familiar on college campuses must follow. The little Hitlers, their "last demands" met, will make new demands. The "authorities," having once yielded, must yield again.

The same thing can happen at College of Marin if either Black Power advocates or dissident faculty members are granted unwarranted concessions in the hope of avoiding a showdown.

THE SHOWDOWN IS NEVER AVOIDED. It is only postponed. And it is always worse for the postponement.

Little Frogs

In the first century after Christ, Pliny the Elder examined a common plant which he found living in wet places where frogs lived. He called it ranunculus or little frog. This is still the scientific name for the 275 odd species of buttercups spread around the world.

As their name implies, the blossoms of the plant are a golden, buttery yellow. While several buttercups are native to the United States, the most conspicuous and showy are transplanted immigrants from Europe that have spread all over this country.

Not only an attractive flower, but a bit of history — that's what we see in these wild ranunculus.

"It may become necessary to destroy the university to save it!"

Rockefeller Speaks Out, Gives Vietnam Debate New Dimension

WASHINGTON — The real Nelson Rockefeller is standing up, giving:

—Support for Vietnam.

—Evidence he can win Republican votes against Republican opposition.

Rockefeller has ended his long and unnatural silence on Vietnam by warning that the U. S. must not accept any settlement which fails to guarantee the people of South Vietnam the right "to determine freely their own destiny."

He beat all comers in the Massachusetts GOP primary, getting a higher write-in vote than favorite-son Gov. John Volpe and running well ahead of Richard Nixon.

THAT'S QUITE a beginning. It doesn't mean that Rockefeller is near to catching up with Nixon, but it does mean that the GOP nomination will be seriously contested and that Nixon can no longer take anything for granted.

Rocky's first pronouncement on Vietnam in two years, to the World Affairs Council in Philadelphia, averts the opposition — perhaps even wins the support — of General Eisenhower. In the Reader's Digest Ike sternly warns his party:

"I will not personally support any peace-at-any-price candidate who advocates capitulation and the abandonment of South Vietnam."

Rocky's Philadelphia speech clearly meets this Eisenhower requirement. It is critical of President Johnson's conduct of the war, both politically and militarily — as Eisenhower has been privately — but it supports the wisdom of defending South Vietnam against Communist expansion-by-force and warns against accepting any peace settlement "dictated by force" and imposed on the people of South Vietnam either by North Vietnam or by the U.S.

HE WANTS to see the "Americanization" of the war effort reversed — as it is now slowly being reversed — and the pacification program given more realistic objectives. He would like to see the Saigon government create a broader political base for itself and press forward with "needed reforms."

These are fair and pertinent criticisms. But because Rockefeller had been so long silent on this issue while anti-Vietnam sentiment was mounting and because he recently hired an extreme dove as a speechwriter, there was wide speculation that he was about to take an extremely soft line and advocate withdrawal under almost any circumstances.

HE DIDN'T. He did say that he did not see further American military escalation in the North as useful. But he admonished Hanoi against "self-deception over our national debate" and declared that "we want a peace based on justice and the rights of all peoples" to government by the consent of the governed. He laid down these three "essential principles" as our proper negotiating position:

1. "We will not accept — and we should not try to impose — any solution dictated by force."

2. "We should accept in South Vietnam's political life any group that seeks its objectives through the political process rather than by wrecking it — by force or subversion."

3. "We must seek a settlement whose aims and guarantees safeguard the freedom and security of all Southeast Asia."

Vietnam debate will continue among the presidential candidates, but it will cross party lines. On one side will be Nixon, Rockefeller, and Humphrey, who do not put getting out ahead of a just settlement, and, on the other, Senators Kennedy and McCarthy, who would make concessions to Hanoi which Nixon, Rockefeller, and Humphrey would consider a "fake peace."

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

THE CIRCUS MANAGER took rather a dim view of the insignificant shrimp who was applying for the job of wild animal trainer. "Aren't you kind of puny for a guy what's got to keep lions, tigers, and leopards at bay?" he sneered. "That's the very secret of my success," declared the unabashed applicant. "Those animals keep waiting for me to grow bigger."

U.S. Resort To Violence Eyed Fearfully Abroad

LONDON (AP) — The Americans' greatest fault is "an undue toleration of violence," a Briton declares, and a Japanese man says he is puzzled as to why the United States does not outlaw possession of firearms.

After the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the widespread disturbances that followed, an Associated Press survey showed many foreign commentators upset by violence in the United States and its possible repercussions overseas.

"The motiveless brawl—'I can beat any man in this bar'—is the basic national joke and is played, with variations, at a thousand cocktail parties in respectable suburbs.

"Only in America will you see two middle-aged, $50,000-a-year executives taking off their coats and rimless specs and squaring up for a bout of fisticuffs.

"Only America would tolerate an organization like the National Rifle Association—perhaps the most powerful lobbying agency in the world—whose chief function is to frustrate firearms control legislation, which it does with brilliant success."

WRITING TO the Tokyo newspaper Asahi, Rokusuke Arii, 58, an office worker, said. "American leaders certainly are aware of the fact that civilized society cannot condone a situation that permits the use of lethal weapons to kill in broad daylight."

He mentioned the assassinations of King and President John F. Kennedy.

The Gaullist newspaper La Nation in Paris said that if someone had "wished to weaken America from inside at the instant when the chief executive had just made a decision with important international consequences, he could not have done better than to assassinate Dr. Martin Luther King."

In Britain, the conservative Evening Standard said: "The whole world is involved ... If this (United States), one of the twin pillars of the world power structure, should collapse, severing its alliances, leaving a sinister vacuum in Europe and Asia, the consequences are terrible to contemplate."

CONCERN ALSO arose about negotiations for preliminary talks between Washington and Hanoi. The Daily Express of London said: "The Americans make a mistake when they dicker too long over where the first meeting with the North Vietnamese is to be held."

"It is hard to square the lengthy maneuverings over the preliminary Vietnam peace talks with President Johnson's offer last year to meet Hanoi's representatives 'any time, anywhere,'" said the Guardian, also British.

The West German news magazine Der Spiegel featured a story this week on Johnson's efforts to unite the American people and create a "great society" of equal and happy Americans.

But, it said, "for the Americans and for the world, Lyndon B. Johnson embodies the decay of the world power America. .

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Give Faculty Less Power, Not More

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In reference to the turmoil over whether the faculty must be consulted on appointments, it would seem that the type of attitude shown by the academic senate is so arbitrary that it might have been one reason a consultation with them was avoided, if it was, when time was important in getting along with the work for the Novato campus.

I would strongly urge the board of trustees to ask Mrs. (Elizabeth M.) Deedy and Mr. (Theodore C.) Wellman to reconsider their resignations. Mrs. Deedy has literally given years of her time to the interests of the College of Marin and has made tremendous contributions. Dr. (William K.) Ramstad should also be asked to reconsider. Many of the faculty voted with the academic senate without even having time to attend the meeting at which the subject was discussed. And faculty I have talked to consider Dr. Ramstad to be very fair, and feel it is his responsibility, with the board, to make decisions as to personnel and planning.

I would also urge the board to stand firm in what it knows is right for the education of our young people, and not give in to pressure politics. If we allow our colleges (or country) to be run by pressure groups, anarchy will follow as surely as night follows day.

The administration has provided everything any faculty could fairly ask for in buildings, equipment, etc., for their particular job of teaching. It is obvious they cannot do as good a job of teaching if the are busy trying to tell the administration how to choose personnel or run the finances.

Also, I do not think it is fair for the faculty to try to get a following of students, in a revolt against the president by praising them to the skies for their "great dedication, responsibility" etc., etc. Granted, the students should help when they can, should have some ideas, but this does not mean "running the show."

Since Mr. Schwartz has chosen to get up and indicate freely in public that he does not "trust" Dr. Ramstad, I feel free to say that I have heard from previous students of Mr. Schwartz' classes that he pushed the far-left line so much in his classes that they were badly upset, but because of grades they dared not argue. . . .

A further point — it is ridiculous for the faculty to suddenly worry about the expenses of the junior college district, when their usual demands are for more money, more salaries, more of everything. . . .

I am sure Marin citizens will now be interested in finding out if we are going to have problems such as those of the University of California at Berkeley.

As a citizen and taxpayer I would suggest the faculty and students be given less, not more, power, unless we are looking for complete anarchy.

Student Discipline Excessively Harsh

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The excessively harsh and punative measures taken against the students who participated in the peace demonstration in San Rafael last Friday by the administration of Drake High School are shocking and disappointing.

Minimum punishment for Drake students was a three-day suspension with more if "a student's record warranted it'. No other high school in Marin suspended any students and in some cases there was no punishmen at all. Normal punishment for cutting two classes would be a warning or detention after school to make up the time. At Drake all girls were excused from the last class Friday to attend a fashion show. Five students who only cut this last class to go to a religious service at the seminary received three to five-day suspensions. Evidently a fashion show is less controversial than religion.

All Drake students had been warned repeatedly that cutting to attend this demonstration would be punished. The group that went expected to be penalized and deserved a fair punishment. But with finals approaching, to be denied class attendance makes their concern for their country and their future a more punishable act than just going to the beach.

It seems right that the principal of each school have complete authority, short of expulsion, to determine punishment for any infraction of the rules that he has made. Along with this authority goes the responsibility to use it with discretion. The arrogant use of power in this situation has created a serious confidence gap . . .

Mr. Harold Allison, the principal of Drake, told me in a discussion of the Friday demonstration, "Our institution is threatened by this kind of thing". We feel that the real threat is his fear and lack of understanding of our young people who are preparing themselves to face a world that badly needs their courage and awareness.

Oroville Dam Dedication Marks Milestone In California History

By HENRY C. McaARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The history of water in California is primarily the history of California itself. Many dramatic developments which have led to this state becoming the most populous in the nation have centered around the development and conservation of its water resources.

The, the weekend dedication of Oroville Dam was something more than a celebration; it was in fact an historical event marking the climax of more than 40 years of effort to assure a continuous supply of water for an ever-growing populace.

California is a state of superlatives, and the technical data regarding Oroville Dam is no exception. It is the highest earth-filled dam in the world today and will, when filled, impound 3.5 million acre-feet of water — enough, says the California Department of Water Resources, to supply the need of the current population for one year.

The power it generates is roughly equivalent to the needs of a city of a million people. The pleasures to be derived by outdoor enthusiasts can't be accurately estimated, but the many miles of lake shore will beckon them for years to come.

Construction of the dam itself was a monumental task without paralled in engineering history. Moving some 80 million cubic yards of fill from dredger tailings to the dam site, by conveyor belt and rail, was a feature of construction never before attempted. Excavation in solid fock for an underground power plant presented its engineering problems.

In addition, a railroad was moved, and seven new bridges were constructed to assure an uninterruped flow of traffic. The old gold mining city of Oroville took on a new look as workmen poured in to complete the dam.

The magnificent project, however, is only a portion of the story, which began almost a half a century ago in the legislative halls of the Capitol in Sacramento. It was then that the idea of a statewide water plan for conservation purposes, to fit the needs of a future population, began to take root.

During the course of development, the federal government took a hand, and constructed Shasta Dam as a part of the Central Valleys water project and, later, smaller Monticello dam on the west side of the Sacramento Valley.

Between the series of dams and canal works from the upper Sacramento, and eventually into the southermost reaches of the state, lies a network which assures Californians, well into the future, enough water for all needs.

Thus, another chapter in California history has been written with the completion of Oroville dam.

THE GROWING PROBLEM OF NOISE

Noise can trigger a number of ailments, as well as bursts of anger, according to Prof. Lee E. Farr of the University of Texas.

He said that "noise pollution" is growing steadily with the increase of motor traffic, industry, jet planes and rockets. Diseases ranging from deafness to emotional instability can result.

Prof. Farr added that physicists, engineers, architects and psychologists are working to reduce unwanted sound to a bearable level.

Multi-layered walls, silent plumbing and soundproofed factories will have to be designed, he predicted, "if we are to make a tolerable adaptation to the noises of civilization."

Noise is only one of the complicating factors in modern life. At times the problems become so pressing that our one desire is to "get away from it all."

But there's really nowhere to go. Furthermore, as we strive to reduce "unwanted noise" in our lives, we can be confident of God's help in overcoming other obstacles.

"Aspire to live quietly, to mind your own affairs, and to work with your hands."

Don's Lucky He Wasn't Wearing His Other Costume For Role

Donald Leaf is known for his portrayals of shady characters in the productions of the Novato Community players. His latest such role is that of Moonface Martin, public enemy No. 13, in the production of "Anything Goes." In the musical, Moonface tries to get away using the disguise of a priest.

Don, being a busy man, was a little late for dress rehearsal the other evening. He was stopped for exceeding the speedlimit, by a member of the Novato police force.

"Hold it down a little bit, father, you were exceeding the speed limit," the officer cautioned Don, letting him off without a ticket.

THE WHEELS of the Division of Highways turn slowly, so slowly.

Years ago, when Robert carrow was mayor of Novato, he carried on a crusade to get some landscaping on the freeway through Novato. Finally the city took over the center planting strips and has maintained them since.

The state made a token of planting a few trees on the banks of the intersection of Highways 101 and 37.

After all these years, the Division of Highways has finally planted oleanders down the center strip of the highway through the southern portion of the city, stopping just north of Highway 37.

THE BIGGEST event in the year in Novato is Western Weekend. In the years when the Junior Chamber of Commerce managed it, a successful formula for the parade, carnival, queen and beard contests, and management of the carnival booths was worked out so that it became a community-wide affair.

Then it was incorporated. A year ago this corporation hired a full-time promoter. This formula did not work so well as expected and the corporation found itself in debt.

That has finally been paid.

The celebration gets most of its income each year from a cut from the proceeds of the carnival. This year the corporation was going to cut back to the original formula. It had scheduled the carnival for the lot on Seventh Street beside Lee Brothers market.

The city council said "no" to this on the recommendation of the city's traffic safety committee. The council wanted the carnival at San Marin.

For awaile it looked as though there would not be a carnival — and without a carnival to finance it, no celebration.

All that was ironed out by the city council and representatives of the celebration last Tuesday night. So now Novato has been assured of its celebration for another year at least.

WE HAVE ALWAYS felt that the big majority of Americans are patriotic and love their country. This is in spite of the demonstrators, draft card burners and other who make the headlines by desecrating the flag.

These Americans will have a chance to express some of their patriotism on May 19 when Hamilton Air Force Base is host to the famed flying team "The Thunderbirds." The Air Force is planning a four and one-half hour program that day.

It will be a good time for parents to show their children how our armed forces stand guard for their protection.

Out Of The Mushroom Cloud, A World Made Sick By Fear

As the Enola Gay began her bomb run on Hiroshima, I was taking off out of Okinawa, heading across the Pacific, atoll-hopping to the Hawaiian Islands to exchange my battered and war-weary DC-3 for a newer model.

By the time I had landed in Honolulu the mushroom over Hiroshima had radically changed the world I had known a few hours earlier.

The towering, blooming, rolling mushroom climaxed the gas chambers, the barbed wire fences, slave labor, the stiff-legged goose step, the iron cross and the broken cross, the bull-dozers bulldozing stick-like corpses into mass graves, and the spindly-legged, belly-bloated kids with the wide dull eyes . . . these and more, much more, make up the volumes that tell only a thin microscopic slice of it all.

And when it was over, when the Enola Gay made her trip, the world knew and so did every kid on the street of every town. Following the Enola Gay came the pictures of Auschwitz and Buchenwald and no one wants to look at them any more, yet every one does and the pictures of the Chaplinish mustache ranting maniacally still appears now and again on the home screens and the neighborhood movie houses and everyone is silent and full of emotion and hardly anyone talks about it anymore.

YES, THE HOT WAR had ended and the cold war had begun.

Small wars sprouted, festering over the globe. Guerrilla fighting and revolutionary tactics came in vogue. Mao Tse Tung wrote about this new kind of fighting and Che Guevera elaborated on it.

The reaction is fear. A fear so overwhelming as to stifle reason. A fear so cancerous it consumes human dignity. A fear so awesome it paralyzes principles. And a fear so rampant it causes us to throw out old verities along with outmoded ideas.

And to fill the void, new "verities" have sprung . . . new verities founded on abject fear.

WHEN ALL-CONSUMING fear proclaims that life is the paramount goal . . . no matter what the conditions, no matter what the price, the result must be all-consuming disaster and a total negation of whatever wisdom man has managed to steep from his 7000 years of recorded history.

The new "truths," we find, condemn war but condone revolution; they abhor violence, yet permit insurrection.

Watch carefully, listen closely, think. The more you watch, the more you listen and the more you think, the more you begin to doubt that the new "verities" will lead us to the Promised Land, to Elysian Fields, to Nirvana.

You find a growing suspicion that the new idea of love, of peace, of equality, of security, the new idea of living, the new concept of freedom does indeed lead inexorably to the promised land . . . the promised land of intellectual slavery; of control — day in day out control — the promised land of the Orwellian Big Brother.

And this all came about, helped by the gas chambers and the mushroom and the reaction they caused . . . the reaction of the fear of dying. And when there is fear of dying . . . there is fear of living . . .

Multi-Media Center Architect On Agenda

Changes for construction materials for an addition at Granada School are also on the agenda.

Project Authority

Novato Mobile Home Park Due Council Study

The Novato City Council will hold an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today to consider several items which it was unable to take up at its April 23 meeting.

It will consider the Sandbach mobile home park on 12 acres on San Marin Drive east of Simmons Lane. This item was referred to it by the Marin County Planning Commission. It was at the April 23 meeting on this matter that Mrs. Alice Sandbach died of a heart attack.

The council will discuss the application for an urban planning grant as recommended by the downtown study committee.

Other items to come before the council include the schedule of meetings on the 1969 budget and a proposed administrative salary plan policy and procedure.

The council has schedule a closed meeting to consider appointments of one member to the city beautification committee and three citizens to attend a regional organization conference.

Angel Island May Be Youth Job Corps Site

Plans to provide summer job training experience for about 300 hard core jobless youths at Angel Island State Park are being explored by the state Parks and Recreation Department, it was learned today.

The program would depend upon federal renewal of a Neighborhood Youth Corps program in San Francisco, and upon "a host of details," said a state official, "but we look favorably on the plans as a way to help develop the island."

The official, Robert B. Hatch, district superintendent for the department, discussed the program with the Independent-Journal while visiting the island on a tour from his Santa Rosa office.

The program has been proposed by Youth For Service, an agency that works in the streets of San Francisco to combat juvenile delinquency. A spokesman for YFS said all of the youths may be included in a recreation program on week ends.

Hatch, noting that YFS proposes to bring 500 youths to the island Saturdays and Sundays for the day, said they might have to be "segregated so they won't interfere with the normal public use of our limited facilities — particularly since they want to have rock 'n' roll concerts and organized athletics."

During the week, the youngsters would work on the continuing project to clear the island, and would help maintain facilities, he said.

Youth For Service, which operates the Neighborhood Youth Corps in San Francisco, has applied for $490,000 in federal funds to operate the corps' annual program, and $250,000 for its summer program.

Ocelots may have black spots, streaks or rings in their furs.

Summer Language Schedule Is Set

The summer school schedule of the Foreign Language Institute, San Anselmo, will include classes in beginning French, German and Spanish starting June 24 through July 31.

Registration is open through June 15 from children and adults. Classes are limited to 10 students and testing for intermediate classes must be taken before June 15.
